Preface

The compilation of a correct listing of all persons in the Lauderdale County, Mississippi Census of 1870 has been a difficult task because of the various tyoes of handwriting and the quality of the microfilm. Every effort has been made to make this work as accurate as possible, but some errors and ommissions are inevitable in a work of this type.

If the name which is being researched cannot be located in the index the researcher should look for possible variations in spelling, such as Lide and Lyde, Smith and Smythe or Conard and Conrad.

In reading the census, it is sometimes impossible to distinguish between I, and J; L and S; M and W; N and U. Lide might be mistakenly indexed as Side or Syde.

How to Use the Index

The index to the 1870 Census of Lauderdale County, Mississippi is printed in two columns.

The first column lists in alphabetical order the name of the individual found in the original census record. The listing includes only those individuals who appear as heads of households or anyone living within the home with a different surname.

A question mark following a name indicates that the spelling of the name is in question in the original text. Much of the census is very difficult to read and some of it is illegible.

When given names are abbreviated in the census and the abbreviation is clearly understood, the name is written out in the index.

The second column gives the page number of the ORIGINAL census on which the name is located.

The page number on the microfilm is located at the upper right hand corner of the census and is the stamped number. Every other page is numbered. The number refers to the indicated page plus the next page.

The information in the body of the census is listed by beat number and post office address in the order in which they appear in the census. Beat numbers and post office locations may appear in more than one place.

Other information may be found by referring to the microfilm. For example, the value of the property may be determined by looking at the appropriate page number on the census microfilm.
