JAMES DILWORTH and ANN WALN

James Dilworth, son of James and Elizabeth Dilworth, was born at Bradley Hall, Thornley, Lancashire, England, in 1658. He probably under the influence of his mother, became a Quaker or member of the Society of Friends, and married under the care of the Settle, Yorks Meeting of the Society of Friends, as of Br Hall, Thornley, Lancashire, 9 of 5th month (which according to the old calendar of time, was 9 July 1680), Ann Waln, daughter ,of Richard Waln and wife, Jane Rudd of Burholme District of Bolland (Bowland) near Lancaster, just a few miles north of Thornley .

Ann Waln was born in Burholme, 15 August 1654. The Walns were "Friends", members of the Bolland Meeting, a branch of the Settle, Yorks Monthly Meeting, and the marriage of Ann to James Dilworth took place at the home of her brother Nicholas Waln, at Chapelcroft, near Bolland, in Yorks.

James Dilworth and wife, Ann Waln had one son, William, born at Thornley, 24 July 1681, and the next year set sail, with their infant son, for America, a in Pennsylvania on the 13th or 14th of the third month (May 1682). They settle in Bristol Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania and became members of the Middletown, Bucks County Society of Friends Monthly Meeting, where the birth of five of their children is recorded .

James Dilworth was an inhabitant of Thornley, Lancashire before his removal to Pennsylvania, and was convinced of the truth there. For a meeting held at his house on the 13th of the Tenth month (13 December) 1676, a fine was imposed on him, to satisfy which he had two oxen taken. At what time he came forth in the ministry we cannot tell, but he laboured faithfully therein

according to his measure, having a loving, helpful companion in his wife, Ann, who was also
minister of the Gospel .

Ann Waln, became a minister in the Society of Friends. After her marriage to James Dilworth, also a minister, they went to Pennsylvania in the same company as her brother, Nicholas Waln. They settled in Bucks County, where James was granted one thousand acres of land, by his friend and close associate, William Penn.

James was in public life for a time representing his neighbors in the Assembly.

In
their religious labors, he and his wife, Ann, traveled much together, visiting
in this way in 1689, the Meetings of Friends in New England. In 1697 and perhaps the early part of 1698, they traveled southward through Maryland, Virginia and Carolina, having with both these visits the unity of the Yearly Meetings of Ministering Friends.

On 26 seventh month (26 September) 1698, Abington Monthly Meeting granted Ann Dilworth alone, a certificate to visit Friends in England by way of Barbadoes. The Yearly Meeting of Ministers, in March 1698-99 approved her certificate and she left about the end of the month.

The parting from her husband was a final one. A few months after her departure, Yellow Fever broke out in Philadelphia and among the valuable Friends removed by it, was James Dilworth. He died in the seventh month - September 1699, being buried on the 14th, the first day before yearly meeting.

Ann returned from England and in November 1701 she married Christopher Sibthorp - her second husband- of Philadelphia, a large landholder in the North Liberties .

We find in the records of Pennsylvania: "The following are the names of the settlers who had preceded Thomas Langhorne and at the time of his arrival here were his neighbors. Nicholas Waln who was a distinguished preacher, arrived here in the ship "Welcome" with William Penn in the 8th month of 1682. He came from Yorks and took up an extensive tract of land in the township in which the first Neshaminy Meetinghouse was built. The same year also arrived James Dilworth and others. They all belonged to the Society of Friends.

DESCENDANTS OF REV. ROWLAND JONES, FIRST RECTOR OF BRUTON PARISH, VA.

By WILSON MILLS CARY.

From a record, written in the hand and on the paper of last century, and found pasted between the leaves of the family register in the Henley Bible, we obtain the following, which is an exact copy of the original:

- "A memorandum taken of the ages of Mr Laine Jones's children:
 "Martha Jones born May 20, 1728.
 "Anne Jones " " Sept. 24, 1729.
 "Laine Jones " " Sept. 15, 1733.
 "Rolando Jones " " April 19, 1738.
 "Frances Jones " " Jan. 26, 1740.
 "William Jones " " Nov. 7, 1746."

This "Mr Laine Jones" was the only brother of Mrs. Frances Dandridge, the wife of Col. John Dandridge, of New Kent. The parish register of St. Peters, New Kent, thus records their births and their mother's death:

- "Lane, son of Mr Orlando Jones, by Martha, his wife, born June 16th, 1707.
 "Frances, daughter " " " " Aug' 6th, 1710.
 "Martha, wife of Orlando Jones, Gent., departed this life..... May 4th, 1716."

From his tombstone in Bruton Church we learn that "Mr Orlando Jones [Burgess from King William in 1718], son of Mr Rowland Jones, sometime minister of this parish, was born Dec' y° 31°, 1681, and died June y° 12th, 1719. His 1st wife was Mr^{ss} Martha Mason [mar. Jan. 31, 1703], dau. of Mr Gideon Mason, of New Kent, by whom he left one son named Lane, and one dau. named Frances. His 2nd wife was Mr^{ss} Mary Williams, dau. of James Williams, of King & Queen Co. [no issue]." His grandfather, Rev. Rowland Jones, born 1608, B. A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1632; Rector of Little Kimble 1661; Vicar of Wendover 1664, and of Dorney, near Windsor Castle, co. Bucks., 1667 to 1685, when he died, was the father of Rev. Rowland Jones, who lies buried in Bruton Churchyard. This "pastor primus et dilectissimus" was born at Swinbrook, Oxfordshire, in 1644, in the midst of the turmoil of the civil war. He matriculated at Merton College, Oxford, Nov. 11, 1663. After some pastoral service at Little Kimble, in Buckinghamshire, he emigrated to Virginia, and took charge of Bruton Parish in 1674, and remained its rector for fourteen years, till his death, April 23, 1688, "parochice quam maximo

BELL-JONES-LEE NOTE.

In the QUARTERLY of last October is an article entitled "Taylor and Jones Families," I cited records to show that Elizabeth Lee, dau. of Hancock Lee of "Ditchley," m. 1st. Swan Jones of Northumberland Co., Va., and 2nd. Zachary Taylor of Orange Co., Va. (the President's grandfather), and that by her first husband she had Capt. John Jones of Orange Co., will dated 31 May 1758, proved the same year, who m. Mary Bell, and, furthermore, that this Mary Bell m. (2dly) Zachary Burnley in 1759.

Mrs. Keach's researches among Northumberland records, published in the QUARTERLY, were liberally used by me in writing the article, and again I had recourse to them to establish the probable identity of the above Mary Bell who m. 1st, Capt. John Jones, and, 2dly, Zachary Burnley.

Captain William Jones, first cousin to Swan Jones mentioned above, m. (as Mrs. Keach shows) Leanna Lee, and, among other children by her, had Elizabeth Jones, b. 1707, who m. Rev. John Bell, and Leanna Jones, b. 1720, who m. Charles Lee, and who in her will, dated 24 Jan. 1761, names her "neice Mary Burnley."

Here then is the evidence as it unfolds:

Mary Bell, Capt. John Jones' widow, m. Zachary Burnley in 1759.

Above testatrix mentions "niece Mary Burnley" in 1761, and testatrix' sister, Elizabeth, was married to Rev. John Bell.

Surely this establishes the identity of Mary Bell. She was daughter of Rev. John Bell and Elizabeth Jones.

In my article in the October number appears, bottom of p. 288, the following: . . . "was testator's half-sister—that is to say, the sister of testator's mother by her second husband, Zachary Taylor."

The family relationship I was dealing with was complicated enough without an error being thrown in for lagniappe. So for "the sister of testator's mother" please read "the daughter of testator's mother."

The last named Col. William Clayton was a member of the House of Burgesses from New Kent from 1769 (perhaps earlier) to 1774; member of the conventions of 1776 and 1788. He was probably a son of John Clayton, the botanist, as he was executor of Jasper Clayton, who was known to be his son. (See Virginia Magazine of Hist. and Biog., Vol. IV, p. 164; QUARTERLY, p. 26.) Issue of Bartholomew Dandridge, 26 Octavia Sinclair, who married John D. DANDRIDGE

Alexander Brown writes: "I am always pleased with your magazine, because it always affords me both interest and information. Mr. Cary makes it clear that John Dandridge was not a son of William and his wife Unity West, as has been generally thought. The article has caused me to look over my West-Dandridge papers as I have not done before, being occupied with other things, and I find that the late Rev. Wm. Spotswood Fontaine wrote me about twenty-five years ago as follows:

"Nathaniel, the third son of Col. John West, was living October 30, 1723, and died soon after. He married late in 1699 a lady in her sixteenth year, he being many years older. In the winter of 1724-'25, his widow married a Mr. Macon, who soon died, and she married (thirdly) in 1727, a Mr. Bigger, a Scotchman.

"Nathaniel West's only child, Unity, married prior to March 17, 1719 [O. S.], William Dandridge, an uncle of Mrs. Gen. Washington." — [p. 36.] Martha Parke Custis married Thomas Peter [not Peters] of Georgetown, D. C., and their son, John Parke Custis Peter, married Elizabeth Jane Henderson, daughter to Rev. James Henderson, some time of William and Mary College. (See The Cabells and their Kin, pp. 426, 435.)

I should have added that the Rev. Wm. S. Fontaine gives the following as the children of Nathaniel and Unity Dandridge (not in order of birth): Nathaniel West Dandridge married Miss Spotswood; William Dandridge married Miss West; Martha Dandridge married Philip Aylett; Elizabeth Dandridge married Philip Whitehead Claiborne; Anna Dandridge married Mr. Dancoy; Mary Dandridge married John Spotswood.

¹ Nathaniel West married Martha — (P) who married 1st Gideon Macon; 3dly Mr. Bigger. Issue of marriage, Unity West, who married William Dandridge, and had Nathaniel West Dandridge, who married Dorthea Spotswood (born 1733, died September 25, 1773), and had Nathaniel West Dandridge (born October 26, 1762, died, 1810), who married Sallie Watson, daughter of John Watson and Mary Bigger (daughter of Mr. Bigger, before mentioned?) Issue: Martha Hale Dandridge, who married Wm. Winston Fontaine (died 1816) and had Rev. Wm. Spotswood Fontaine, who married July 5, 1832, Sarah Shelton Aylett (born June 24, 1811, died March 5, 1876.) She was a kinswoman of her husband. Thus, William Dandridge and Unity West had issue, Martha (born 1721, died April 25, 1747), who married Philip Aylett. Issue: William Aylett, who married Mary Macon (daughter of Col. James Macon and Elizabeth, daughter of Augustine Moore). Issue: Philip Aylett (born 1767, died 1831), who married Elizabeth Henry (born April 23, 1769, died October 24, 1842). Issue: Sarah Shelton Aylett. Elizabeth Henry was daughter of Patrick Henry and Sarah Shelton.

² I note that Mr. Cary does not give these two. Has Mr. Fontaine erred in giving them? — A. Brown.

Excerpts from MEMORIAL RECORD OF ALABAMA. PERSONAL
MEMOIRS - TALLADEGA COUNTY □ PAGES 994 and 995

J. B. WOODWARD, a leading merchant of Talladega, was born December 7, 1846. He is the eldest son of J. A. and Minerva (Rice) Woodward. The former, Hon. Joseph A. Woodward, was a native of Fairfield district, S. C., and was born April 11, 1806. He was the son of Hon.
William Woodward who, while he was a practicing physician and a minister of the gospel, was at the same time a prominent politician, and served in congress several terms. The father of Hon. William Woodward, Thomas Woodward, was known in the history of South Carolina as the "Regulator." Hon. Joseph A. Woodward had several brothers of distinction, two of whom came to Alabama, Thomas B. and Rev. William Woodward. The latter resided for several years in Sumter county, Ala. where he was pastor of Baptist churches, and frequently represented that county in the lower house of the legislature. The father of J. B. Woodward came to Alabama in 1860, and settled in Talladega county, where he remained until his death. He was a graduate of the state university of South Carolina at Columbia, then under the presidency of Dr. Cooper, and was entirely familiar with the Latin classics, and took great delight in Greek literature. He was a lawyer by profession, and while in South Carolina led a very distinguished career as a lawyer, successfully arguing several very important cases before the courts in Washington, D. C. He served several terms in the legislature of South Carolina, and in 1843 was elected to congress from the Winnsboro district, and was returned to his seat in the halls of congress for five consecutive terms, giving entire satisfaction to his constituency, and finally retiring because he did not desire longer to serve. He was a statesman of the broadest views. He was a friend and lifelong admirer of Hon. John C. Calhoun, and though he differed widely in his views of public policy from Hon. Horace Greeley, yet he was a friend of Mr. Greeley and kept up a correspondence with him until that gentleman's death in 1872. Mr. Woodward was well informed upon all subjects of general interest, and his life was one of constant and unswerving integrity throughout. On his death-bed he expressed himself as having no fear. Some of his last utterances were: "I am ready to die;" "God has provided a place for me;" "I am not dying by accident or mere chance, it is God that is killing me, and it is right;" "I am done with this world and am ready for the next;" "I shall soon be in the region of great festivities." J. B. Woodward received a good common school education, but the war coming on cut his education short. In 1862, when but sixteen years of age, he offered his services to the southern cause, enlisting in the first company of Washington artillery of New Orleans, under Capt. Charles Squires, and serving until the surrender of Lee. He was with his battalion in all its battles after joining, except the one at Drewry's bluff. After the war he returned to Talladega, and at first accepted a position in a store as clerk, in which position he remained several years. He then formed a co-partnership with I. B. Merriam of New York, doing a general merchandise business in the town of Talladega, after which he formed a partnership with his father-in-law, J. P. Wood, under the firm name of J. P. Wood & Co., which name has never been changed to this time. He has served as alderman of Talladega several years, and is a member of the Knights of Honor. In 1877 he married, and by this marriage has two children, Rice, a son, and Pinckney C., a daughter. Mr. Woodward and his wife are members of

HON. THOMAS W. WOODWARD.

The Woodward family is one of the oldest American connections. It has furnished men of patriotic sentiments, many of whom have been distinguished for great gallantry on their country's battlefields, since its settlement in the new world many generations ago. The Hon. Thomas W. Woodward, the immediate subject of this biographical mention, is the great-grandson of Thomas Woodward, a Virginian, whose father was also named Thomas. The latter was born near Annapolis, Md., his ancestors having come to this country from England with George Calvert Baron, of Baltimore, and settled in Maryland, A. D. 1634. The name, Woodward, is derived from the occupation of those who were wood wards — one who protects a forest, and indicates that the family is of gentle origin, and originated in the time of William of Normandy, 1066. Thomas the elder, was married twice. After the death of his first wife, who bore him several children, he removed to Fairfax county, Va., and there married Elizabeth Simpson, a lady of Scotch parentage. Their one son was Thomas, "The Regulator." He distinguished himself in the French and Indian wars. His marriage resulted in the birth of four daughters and two sons, the names of the latter being John and William. Both served in the Revolution as patriotic soldiers. Some time after the independence of the states had been established William was elected to congress, and in after years became a Baptist clergyman, and died at Chester, S. C. John died at an advanced age in Fairfield county, S. C. Thomas, the father of the Regulator, came to Fairfield county, S. C., several years prior to the Revolution, and at the outbreak of that struggle raised one of the first companies to serve in the Colonial army. He was killed on Dutchman's creek, in Fairfield county, S. C., in a fight with the British and tories, May 12, 1779. He was noted for his dauntless courage, as have been, indeed, all his family, and was a man of rugged honesty and gentlemanly instincts. He married for his second wife the widow May, a lady of Indian blood, and seven children were born to them. John Woodward was a captain in the Revolution. He married Jemima Collins, and became the father of three sons and three daughters. John spent the rest of his days in Fairfield county as a planter. One of his sons was William T. Woodward, the father of our subject. He was graduated from the South Carolina college, and followed in his father's footsteps as a planter. For several terms he served in the state legislature with efficiency. Harriet Smart, a lady of rare accomplishments, a native of South Carolina, became his wife, and bore him three children, two daughters and one son. The Hon. Thomas W. Woodward, the son above mentioned, was born on the plantation in Fairfield county, S. C., which has been in his family since a portion of it was granted to Thomas the Regulator by King George III. His birth occurred May 7, 1833. He was given every educational advantage, having first attended the Mount Zion college, later Shirley's institute, and then Wake Forest college, of North Carolina, where he spent a few months in 1847. In the fall of 1848 he entered the South Carolina college. His collegiate career was cut short in his junior year by his participation in the famous "Steward Hall rebellion," when he was expelled with 107 others. His mother died in his childhood, and he was but a lad when his father's death left him an orphan under the care of his uncle, Mr. Osmund Woodward, his father's executor. February 15, 1855, Mr. Woodward very happily married Miss Cornelia M. Dantzer, of Orangeburg, S. C., and at that time settled on his plantation, and turned his attention to the calling of his fathers. Mrs. Woodward died in 1878. Miss Rebecca V. Lyles, daughter of Capt. Thomas M. Lyles, a grandson of the first white settler in Fairfield county, became his second wife. In 1860-1 Fairfield county elected Mr. Woodward its representative in the legislature, and he was a member of the session which called the convention of secession, and his vote was cast for that measure. He volunteered as a private in the Fairfield Fencibles, at the outbreak of the Civil war, and upon the organization of the Sixth South Carolina volunteer regiment he was elected major. He was seriously wounded at the battle of Dranesville. Subsequently he re-enlisted as a private, and was tendered the office of quartermaster of the Twentieth volunteer regiment. Acting in that capacity Mr. Woodward served during the remaining years of the war. His regiment was attached to Kershaw's brigade when they went into Virginia, and Major Woodward surrendered with Johnston at Greensboro. Returning to his home after the last struggle of the Confederacy, he resumed his occupation as a planter, and has since continued with increasing success. As acting chairman of the Fairfield county democratic committee in 1876, Mr. Woodward rendered distinguished aid to the cause of white supremacy and purity in politics in the state. He has always been a staunch and loyal supporter of the democratic party, and has antagonized every movement that, in his opinion, would detract from the success of democracy. In 1890 he took a bold stand against the farmers' alliance movement, as conducted, and voted and worked against the election of Gov. Tillman. Major Woodward was elected senator to represent his county in 1884, and was re-elected in 1888, both elections having been without opposition.

WOODWARD, JOHN JEFFERSON, lawyer, colonel in C. S. Army, was born October 8, 1808, in Winnsboro, Fairfield County, S. C., and died in battle, June 27, 1862, at Richmond, Va.; son of John and Patsie Eloise (Exham) Woodward, the former a native of Winnsboro, S. C., a planter, who succeeded his father as captain of his company in the Revolutionary War, fought at the battle of Eutaw, and afterwards served in both branches of the South Carolina legislature; grandson of Thomas Woodward, of South Carolina, who came from England with two brothers who settled, one in Pennsylvania and the other in Maryland, raised the first company in the up country for the Revolutionary Army, was commissioned captain June 18, 1775, was a member of the Provincial congress, 1776, was captured by the British and taken to Charleston, made his escape and returned to his company, and was killed by Tories, May 12, 1779. Col. Woodward received his early education at Mt. Zion college, Winnsboro, S. C., and was a graduate of Columbia college, about 1827. He was admitted to the bar in 1828, and engaged in planting. He moved to Alabama in 1837 and settled in Talladega County among the Indians. He farmed there for several years, but because of the difficulties in transporting crops, sold his plantation in 1845, and began the practice of law in Talladega. For some time he was connected with the publication of the "Watchtower," a Democratic newspaper, and in 1847 was elected to the State legislature. He was appointed by Gov. Chapman to fill the vacancy on the circuit bench, caused by the resignation of Judge Stone, in January, 1849, and was elected to that position by the legislature the following year. When the election of the judges was given to the people in 1850, he was defeated. In 1853 he was elected solicitor of the ninth judicial district by the legislature, and in 1857 was re-elected. In June, 1861, he entered the C. S. Army as captain of the Davis Blues, a company in the Tenth Alabama regiment. Soon after reaching Virginia he was promoted to major, and was advanced to lieutenant colonel in December, 1861, in which capacity he commanded the regiment at Williamsburg. He was promoted to colonel and led the Tenth Alabama at Seven Pines, at Cold Harbor, and in the charge of Wilcox's division at Gaines Mill, where he fell mortally wounded. He was a Jeffersonian Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: in May, 1830, at Winnsboro, S. C., to Rebecca Mary, daughter of Philip Edward and Rachel Lavinia (Yongue) Pearson, of Winnsboro, S. C., the former who was a lawyer at that place, and the latter a daughter of an Irishman, a Presbyterian minister, who was president of Mt. Zion college. Children: 1. Edward Pearson, m. WOODWARD, WILLIAM, Baptist minister and legislator, was born November 15, 1792, York District, S. C., and died September 1871, in Choctaw County; son of William Woodward, a physician, and minister, who represented South Carolina in the Fourteenth congress; grandson of Thomas Woodward, one of the Regulators in South Carolina, and member of the provincial congress of 1790. In 1820 he moved to Chester District, S. C., where he farmed and served as a member of the State legislature for three years. He county, where they remained until 1834. They then moved to Talladega county, where Mr. Wood remained the rest of his life. Previous to the war he was one of the most extensive planters in Talladega county, owning some 3,000 acres of land, and he was one of the largest slave holders in the state. His death occurred in 1881. His wife was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. Joshua Wood, the paternal grandfather of Ashley C., was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, as was also his maternal grandfather, Agrippa Atkin. Ashley C. Wood came to Talladega county with his parents when two years old, received a good education and remained with them until he attained mature years. In 1849 he entered the college at Talladega, and remained two years. He then entered the state university at Tuscaloosa, but after spending two years there he was compelled to abandon college on account of failing health. Soon, however, he entered the office of Elmore & Yancey, at Montgomery, and began the study of law. He was admitted to the bar in 1857, and has since been engaged in the practice of his profession except during the time he served in the late war. In 1862 he enlisted in company F, Capt. N. D. Johnson, Fifty-first Alabama regiment, and served until the close of the war. He was the legal adviser of the western army and was sent with Gen. Johnston to Augusta, Ga., at the time of the surrender. After the close of the war he returned to the county of Talladega and resumed the practice of law. Through his practice and through the property left him by his father he has now a handsome competency. He owns a large tract of land which his father opened in the pioneer days of the state. He is one of the foremost, one of the most substantial and one of the best citizens of the county, as well as being one of the best lawyers. He is a republican in politics and one of the strongest veterans in the doctrine of protection to American industries. On March 10, 1858, Mr. Wood married Josephine Brooks, of South Carolina. Her parents were I. L. and Sarah (Oliver) Brooks. Her father was a Baptist minister of national reputation. To this union several children were born, five of whom are living, viz.: Clinton A., Cornelia R., Walk, Julia and Frank. The mother of these children was a native of South Carolina and was of one of the old pioneer families of that state. She was a member of the Baptist church and died in 1887. In 1889, Mr. Wood married Mrs. Susan Pruettt, daughter of Washington and Rachel (Vardaman) Robinson, who were natives of Georgia and came to Alabama about 1830. The father is now living at eighty-three years of age. Mrs. Wood is a member of the Baptist church.

J. B. WOODWARD, a leading merchant of Talladega, was born December 7, 1846. He is the eldest son of J. A. and Minerva (Rice) Woodward. The former, Hon. Joseph A. Woodward, was a native of Fairfield district, S. C., and was born April 11, 1806. He was the son of Hon. William Woodward who, while he was a practicing physician and a minister of the gospel, was at the same time a prominent politician, and served in congress several terms. The father of Hon. William Woodward, Thomas Woodward, was known in the history of South Carolina as the "Regulator." Hon. Joseph A. Woodward had several brothers of distinction, two of whom came to Alabama, Thomas B. and Rev. William Woodward. The latter resided for several years in Sumter county, Ala., where he was pastor of Baptist churches, and frequently represented that county in the lower house of the legislature. The father of J. B. Woodward came to Alabama in 1860, and settled in Talladega county, where he remained until his death. He was a graduate of the state university of South Carolina at Columbia, then under the presidency of Dr. Cooper, and was entirely familiar with the Latin classics, and took great delight in Greek literature. He was a lawyer by profession, and while in South Carolina led a very distinguished career as a lawyer, successfully arguing several very important cases before the courts in Washington, D. C. He served several terms in the legislature of South Carolina, and in 1843 was elected to congress from the Winnsboro district, and was returned to his seat in the halls of congress for five consecutive terms, giving entire satisfaction to his constituency, and finally retiring because he did not desire longer to serve. He was a statesman of the broadest views. He was a friend and lifelong admirer of Hon. John C. Calhoun, and though he differed widely in his views of public policy from Hon. Horace Greeley, yet he was a friend of Mr. Greeley and kept up a correspondence with him until that gentleman's death in 1872. Mr. Woodward was well informed upon all subjects of general interest, and his life was one of constant and unswerving integrity throughout. On his death-bed he expressed himself as having no fear. Some of his last utterances were: "I am ready to die;" "God has provided a place for me;" "I am not dying by accident or mere chance, it is God that is killing me, and it is right;" "I am done with this world and am ready for the next;" "I shall soon be in the region of great festivities." J. B. Woodward received a good common school education, but the war coming on cut his education short. In 1862, when but sixteen years of age, he offered his services to the southern cause, enlisting in the first company of Washington artillery of New Orleans, under Capt. Charles Squires, and serving until the surrender of Lee. He was with his battalion in all its battles after joining, except the one at Drewry's bluff. After the war he returned to Talladega, and at first accepted a position in a store as clerk, in which position he remained several years. He then formed a co-partnership with I. B. Merriam of New York, doing a general merchandise business in the town of Talladega, after which he formed a partnership with his father-in-law, J. P. Wood, under the firm name of J. P. Wood & Co., which name has never been changed to this time. He has served as alderman of Talladega several years, and is a member of the Knights of Honor. In 1877 he married, and by this marriage has two children, Rice, a son, and Pinckney C., a daughter. Mr. Woodward and his wife are members of

to serve under Capt. Dickson and Col. Sumter. In the battle at Stono, he had a rib broken but he continued to fight. He was at the siege of Savannah under Colonel Henderson. When Charleston fell, he was wounded in his haunch and taken prisoner. After being held six weeks, he escaped and joined Sumter. A.A.8755.

Col. Woodward received his early education at Mt. Zion college, Winnsboro, S. C., and was a graduate of Columbia college, about 1827. He was admitted to the bar in 1828, and engaged in planting. He moved to Alabama in 1837 and settled in Talladega County among the Indians. He farmed there for several years, but because of the difficulties in transporting crops, sold his plantation in 1845, and began the practice of law in Talladega. For some time he was connected with the publication of the "Watchtower," a Democratic newspaper, and in 1847 was elected to the State legislature. He was appointed by Gov. Chapman to fill the vacancy on the circuit bench, caused by the resignation of Judge Stone, in January, 1849, and was elected to that position by the legislature the following year. When the election of the judges was given to the people in 1850, he was defeated. In 1853 he was elected solicitor of the ninth judicial district by the legislature, and in 1857 was re-elected. In June, 1861, he entered the C. S. Army as captain of the Davis Blues, a company in the Tenth Alabama regiment. Soon after reaching Virginia he was promoted to major, and was advanced to lieutenant colonel in December, 1861, in which capacity he commanded the regiment at Williamsburg. He was promoted to colonel and led the Tenth Alabama at Seven Pines, at Cold Harbor, and in the charge of Wilcox's division at Gaines Mill, where he fell mortally wounded. He was a Jeffersonian Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: in May, 1830, at Winnsboro, S. C., to Rebecca Mary, daughter of Phillip Edward and Rachel Lavinia (Yongue) Pearson, of Winnsboro, S. WOOLSEY, BENJAMIN MINTHORNE, lawyer, planter salt commissioner; was born in August, 1823, near Athens, Ga., and died August 19, 1886, at Selma; son of Abraham Minthorne and Emily Wingfield (Sims) Woolsey, who moved to Mobile in 1836, where the former died soon after. His father was a near relative of Dr. T. D. Woolsey, president of Yale University, and his mother, a native of Washington County, Ga., married Bishop James O. Andrews (q. v.), after the death of her first husband. Mr. Woolsey received his early education in Mobile, and was graduated from Emory college, Ga., when he was eighteen years old. He returned to Mobile, where he studied law, and was admitted to the bar, then took a course in law at Yale college. He opened an office in Mobile in 1844, but after practicing for two or three years was forced by declining health to give up his profession. In 1846 he moved near Selma, Dallas County, and until the last year of the War of Secession engaged extensively in planting in the country, and in a commission business in the city. He represented Dallas County in the State legislature in 1851 and again in 1856, and the following year was a presidential elector on the Fillmore ticket. A year later he declined the nomination of his party for congress, and in 1860 was a Bell and Everett elector. During the War of Secession Gov. Thomas H. Watts appointed him salt commissioner of the state with the rank of colonel, in which capacity he served through the last two years of the war. A short time before the close of the war he moved with his family to Summerfield, for the purpose of educating his children and leaving them in a place of safety during his absence on the affairs of the Confederate Government. After the war he returned to Selma and engaged in the cotton factorage and fire insurance business, in which he remained to the day of his death. Married: in Dallas County, to Luanda, daughter of John Swift of that county. Children: 1. Susie Emily, deceased, m. Samuel Will John (q. v.); 2. St. George Lee d. unmarried; 3. Miniborne, m. C., emigrated to Georgia and bought a tract of land between Louisville and Savannah, Ga., and whose father was a Virginian; grandson of Capt. John Vickers, a Revolutionary War, who was captain of a company that fought through the war, and at its close moved to Georgia. He was left an orphan in early life, and received his education in the common schools of his day and in the Augusta high school for boys. He entered the Augusta medical college, October 17, 1833, and after pursuing the course there, was graduated with highest honors. He then attended the medical course at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, where he was also graduated with honors. At the latter in-

WOODWARD, WILLIAM, Baptist minister and legislator; was born November 15, 1792, in York District, S. C., and died September 7, 1871, in Chocoma County; son of William Woodward, a physician, and minister, who resided in South Carolina in the fourteenth congress; grandson of Thomas Woodward, leader of the Regulators in South Carolina, and a member of the provincial congress of 1775. In 1820 he moved to Chester District, S. C., where he farmed and served as a member of the State legislature for three years. He later moved from Gaston to Point Clear in Baldwin County and served many terms in the legislature in that county. These two Nelsons did much to lay the foundation of the Baptist cause in Baldwin County.

Among the early settlers in this community was Henry Wideman, who built the first cotton gin and a mill at a point on the old Gaston and Black Bluff Road between Hurricane and Little Kinterbish Creeks. Wideman's Mill was one of the first voting places in the county. The Widemans belonged to the church here and belonged to the Slay faction. After the death of Mr. Wideman, his widow married John Matthews, a man of wealth, and they had one daughter, Mary, who was educated at the Central College in Tuscaloosa, and who married Rev. Charles Manley, a Baptist minister, who was the son of Dr. Basil Manley, the president of the University of Alabama, and he was also a Baptist minister. Dr. John Matthews Manley, who is the head of the Department of English in the University of Chicago, and one of the most distinguished English scholars in the world, and his sister, Mrs. Patrick, who was the wife of Dr. Patrick, who was president of Judson College, were children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manley. The church at Gaston had among its pastors, William Woodward, J. K. Ryan, P. G. Edmonds, G. W. Kennard, L. Calloway, and many others. This church had a great influence in the county, but during the War Between the States it went to pieces and was removed to Pine Grove. Another church was organized about five miles east of here in 1843, by William Fluker and Fred B. Loftin, and was known as Bethany Church. It was afterwards changed to Black Bluff, and then to Hickory Hill.

This Hickory Hill Church prospered for many years until about 1892, and on account of its membership moving away, was dissolved, and its membership merged with Shorts Church. There were a number of other ministers who were members of the Gaston Church and took a prominent part in its affairs, among them were William Fluker, L. Calloway, and S. Williams. L. Calloway lived on what is known as the Fluker Place, and sold it to Dr. William Fluker. Among the active laymen of the church we find the following: W. W. Coates, J. J. Shed, F. Y. Townsend, T. Y. Dearman, Bluford Seale, S. McLendon and Pleasant White. I think that a sketch of some of the pastors who took a prominent part in the church at Gaston would not be out of place, so that the present and future generations may know who laid the foundations of the work here. Dr. Wm. Fluker was born in Virginia in 1783, just about the close of the Revolutionary War, and was one of those Virginia aristocrats who embraced the Baptist cause. It has been hard to get much information about his early life, and we first find him in Marengo County, at Linden, in the early settlement of that town, and in 1833 he settled near Moscow, or Coatopa, in Sumter County, and the remainder of his life was spent in Sumter County. He preached all over the County and organized churches, serving the churches at Christian Valley, New Prospect, Hopewell, Sumter County, Livingston, Hickory Hill and many others, and was one of the most active ministers in the Baptist denomination, and took an active part in the Association. About 1851 he removed to this neighborhood and purchased, what was afterwards called, the Fluker Plantation, and died there. He was a man of education, refinement and polish, and very enthusiastic in his work as a minister. He owned much property in the way of land and slaves and gave his time to preaching the gospel. He was buried at what is known as the Seale Graveyard, which is at the site of the First Baptist Church in this community.

William Woodard was born in South Carolina in 1792, but moved to Alabama at an early date, and in which he lived a long and useful life, and was widely known as one of her most honored citizens, having served several sessions as a senator in the Legislature. He was a near relative of Gen. Thomas Woodward, who took such a strong part in the Creek War in 1812, and had a brother who was a former citizen of Talladega County. For many years he was Moderator of the Old Central Association, and was the first Moderator of the Bigbee Association, and took a prominent part in its organization, and was for years one of its guiding spirits. But while he excelled as a statesman he found his highest honor in the work as a minister of the Gospel. He had not enjoyed the advantages of a classical education, but he was so highly endowed by nature with a vigorous intellect and extra powers of mind that he became one of the ablest expounders and defenders of the Gospel. Few were better versed in the history and affairs of state and government; fewer still were as well read in the word of God. He was tall in stature, commanding in person, social in disposition, profound in thought, wise in council, mature in judgment, and able in argument, and powerful in the defense of his positions and principles."

J. K. Ryan was elected pastor of the Gaston Church in 1858, and while pastor of that church he baptized my mother. Mr. Ryan was born near Greensboro, Alabama, on November 19, 1824, and died February 24, 1889, at his home near Yantley Creek, in Choctaw County, Alabama. In 1835 his father, the Rev. Joseph Ryan, moved to Sumter County, Alabama. Mr. Ryan was a few months older than my father, Thomas F. Seale, who was also born near Greensboro, in 1825, and they removed to the southern part of Sumter County about the same time and went to school together and were great friends. J. K. Ryan was one of the best and ablest men that has lived in the Bigbee Association. He was its leading spirit for many years, and was its Moderator 14 times, and there is no way to measure his influence in that body. When about 12 years of age he joined Harmony Church (now Zion) and was baptized by his father. He was licensed to preach in 1851, and ordained in 1853, and became an active pastor the same year and continued in the regular pastoral office up to his last year. It has been well said of him that the Bigbee Association never had a member to continue longer in her bounds nor to render more official and faithful service than he. He never shrank from any duty or labor to further the cause he loved so well. During his life as a minister he was pastor of 20 churches, traveled in ministerial labor 37,027 miles, preached 3,100 sermons, baptized 1,906 people, received by letter 772, administered the Lord's Supper 300 times, performed 516 marriage ceremonies, assisting in ordaining 25 ministers and 30 deacons.

After the War Between the States there was an occasional preaching in the neighborhood by itinerant preachers and some missionary work was done. In 1874 a school house was built about one and one-half miles north of here on the Livingston Road and called Center on account of it being in the center of the township. A short time after that a Baptist church was organized at Center by Rev. W. F. Pond, and he was pastor until about 1881. Mr. Pond was born in Anson County, North Carolina in 1833, and died April 10, 1895. He came to Alabama when a boy, and in early life joined the Baptist church at Gaston, and when that church was disbanded he became a member of Zion Church, by which he was licensed to preach in the early seventies. In 1873 Hickory Hill Church called for his ordination and he was pastor of that church for eight years. After he was ordained, on February 28, 1880, helped organize the Beulah Baptist Church in his own neighborhood. During his ministry, he was pastor of Cuba, Concord, Hopewell, Clear Creek, Rehoboth, Siloam and Center. He was modest and unassuming in his life, but his work in the pulpit was brave and courageous, and wherever he preached he succeeded in gaining souls for Christ. It has been well said that "he was pure in all his social relations, modest, but genial with friends and companions, chaste in his conversation, cheerful among men." And his influence was a great factor for good in his community.

A large number of the members of the Center Church moved away and it ceased to function about 1881, and the neighborhood became almost dead, but in 1882 some of the enterprising citizens of the community secured the services of Miss Mamie Boland to teach the school and she opened the school a short distance from this spot, and immediately set to work to organize a Sunday School, and being a most zealous worker, and most sincere in her religious profession, she soon succeeded in both undertakings. People attended her school from Gaston to Beville, and paid tuition, and their own transportation.

P. E. Ward was the first superintendent of this Sunday School, and soon after Sunday School was organized there was so much enthusiasm and such a revival of religious work in the community that a movement was started to build a church at the suggestion of Miss Boland. Every one entered into the movement with great enthusiasm and a building committee was appointed consisting of E. B. Hearn, P. E. Ward and J. A. Lockard, who raised the funds necessary to build this church. They were assisted in this by my father, T. F. Seale, who had recently returned from Texas, and he took an active part in building this church. These four contributed an equal amount in money, and together with Mrs. Woodson, furnished the larger amount of the donations. M. M. McDonald presented the church with the land on which it stands, and it was located in what was known as the old "Ingram Field," being just a few feet east of where stood the house of Joseph Ingram, who settled there in 1834. After Mr. McDonald gave the land, arrangements were made to build the church, and the contract was let to J. W. Hale to erect the church in 1883, and upon its completion it was decided to dedicate the church the fifth Sunday in March 1884, or just 40 years ago today. The Association held its District Meeting here and services were had on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with dinner on the ground. A large crowd was present from all parts of the county, and it was decided to remove the Center organization to this church, which was done. As I recall from memory those who entered into the new organization, were Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hearn, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bragg, Mr. T. F. Seale, Miss Lula Seale, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. McDonald and Mr. and Mrs. Mundy.

Among the preachers who took part in the dedication of this church, L. L. Belcher, A. R. Scarborough, C. C. Vaughan, T. B. Woodward and J. R. Larkin. Mrs. Woodson, who afterwards founded the Orphan's Home, had been reared in this community, and made a large contribution in money to have the church erected, although she had not lived in this section of the state for many years, and had no interest in it except that love for the neighborhood in which she was brought up, and which always remains with us. Her contribution did much toward getting the church in this community, and she having been Miss Louise Short in her girlhood, and the church was named Short's in her honor. The name should be spelled with an apostrophe. J. R. Larkin preached for the church once a month the remainder of that year, but having been elected by the people of the county to the State Legislature, he gave up the church that fall and W. H. DeWitt was called and served the following year. In 1885, at his suggestion, the church petitioned for membership into the Bigbee Association and was received into the same at Concord. At that time the church reported 21 members with eight Sunday School teachers and 44 pupils. In the early part of 1883, T. F. Seale was elected Superintendent of the Sunday School, and upon the organization of the church he was elected Clerk of the Church. He continued as Superintendent for about seven years after which he was succeeded by F. M. Ward. In 1886, E. B. Hearn was elected Clerk of the Church and continued as such until his death in 1905. The Sunday School was very active in this church for many years, and whenever we consider the Sunday School cause, church during the years that he was pastor. He was a very large man, weighing nearly 300 pounds, and a most persuasive preacher. He was probably the most popular pastor the church had in the first ten years of its existence. He was followed by A. J. Hearn. Mr. Hearn was a strong man in many respects. He was a very zealous advocate for missions and temperance, and stressed that in his work very much. He was one of the best collectors I ever saw in taking a special collection for a worthy cause, and could get his audience enthused to the point where they would give large sums. A. R. Scarborough was pastor one year, and during that year he was very successful. He added many members to the church, and although he was past 70 years, he had a great influence with the young people, and every one believed in his earnestness and sincerity, and he had a great influence for good. Mr. Scarborough was one of the leading spirits of the Bigbee Association. He was born in Nash County, North Carolina, in 1815, and died six miles east of Livingston, July 10, 1888. He joined the Baptist Church and was ordained in the ministry on October 28, 1850. In his youth he came with his father to Alabama. He entered upon the work of preaching in the early years, and was an earnest advocate of the Gospel. His entire ministerial career was spent in the Bigbee Association, and he participated in its organization and was many times its moderator. He served three churches in the Association the entire period of his ministry. He was earnest and devout, conservative and brave and firm in the maintenance of all principles in which he embraced. He was a great peacemaker, and his influence was one of lasting good throughout the Association.

C. C. Vaughan served the church very faithfully during the year 1891. I have been unable to obtain the place of his birth, but he served four years with the Hickory Hill Church, and was pastor of the Siloam Church for more than 20 years, and was a County Commissioner of Sumter County for a number of years, and was very sincere, and a good citizen, and always stood for the right.

T. B. Woodward, who was pastor a short time in 1895, and died during that year, was a son of Rev. William Woodward, and was a gallant Confederate soldier. He was very active in the restoration of white supremacy in the reconstruction days. His loyalty to the cause he stood for knew no limit. He was ordained to preach in the Hickory Hill Church in September 1877, and was very active as a preacher the remainder of his life. He was the father of Rev. H. B. Woodward. Mr. Woodward was strong in controversy, and was always ready to defend his views anywhere and at anytime, and there was never any question as to where he stood. I will not undertake to write anything as to the pastors who are now living or who served the church after I left the community.

J. E. Vaughan is now pastor; W. F. Sims, M. E. Ward, and R. T. Dearman are the deacons of the church; F. N. Ward, church clerk; M. E. Ward, secretary and treasurer; W. T. Hearn, superintendent of the Sunday School, and Melba Hearn, secretary of the Sunday School. There is one pastor who served this church in the beginning, and several times during the first ten years of its history, that I feel deserves to be more fully mentioned in this sketch, and that is Rev. J. R. Larkin of Coatopa. Mr. Larkin was the son of J. R. Larkin, who was one of the organizers of the Bigbee Association, and was many years its treasurer, and was one of the outstanding leaders in the Baptist cause in this county, and who died a member of the Legislature of Alabama. As I have stated, Mr. Larkin gave up the work in this church in the latter part of the year 1884 to serve in the Legislature from Sumter County, and during this time he did much for the cause of prohibition, and introduced and passed bills prohibiting the sale of liquor in York and Cuba beats, and in 1886 he was again elected to the Legislature, and was made chairman of the Temperance Committee in the House, and at that session a bill was passed pro-aspires. It is but just to say that he was the most gifted orator the State has produced. An English peer who heard him in Washington said that he had listened to the great orators of Europe and America, but this member from the mountains of Alabama excelled them all. In the forum, or on the stump, he was irresistible. The symmetry of his propositions was such as to leave no flaw, and to the mind's eye his logic was as clear as a sunbeam. His words came not only without effort, but he seemed rather to repress than promote their utterance. His influence over an audience was wondrous, and, as Macaulay has defined eloquence to be persuasion, he fully reached that standard. Nor was he less sound and learned, for Chancellor Bowie pronounced his briefs models of legal acumen. In appearance he was prepossessing. Six feet high and well proportioned, his features were handsome and well developed. His temperament was somewhat sanguine, and he was agreeable, polished, and full of generous impulses. His only enemy was his own appetite, which impaired his usefulness, and cut him off in the zenith of life. He married the daughter of Hon. Thomas Chilton of this county, formerly a congressman from Kentucky, and his children are now in Talladega. Bowdon College, in Carroll county, Georgia, is named in honor of Mr. Bowdon.

The late JACOB TIFTON BRADFORD was a resident of this county. He was born in Jefferson county, Tennessee, in 1807, and was the son of a planter who came from North Carolina. The son was well educated, and settled in Jackson county to merchandise in 1827. In 1832 he was appointed register in the land office at Montevallo, and continued with it when it was brought to Mardisville. In 1836 he was elected general of militia. He went with the land office when it was transferred to Lebanon in 1842, but returned to Talladega in 1845. In 1849 he was the whig candidate for congress, but his party was in the minority. He served Talladega in the senate from 1853 to '57. Under the Confederate government he was commissioner of public lands for the State. He died March 4, 1866. Gen. Bradford was possessed of extensive information, a retentive mind, and agreeable deportment. His memory is much respected. He married a daughter of Hon. Micah Taul of Kentucky, a member of congress and the father of Hon. Micah Taul of this county, who was elected secretary of state in 1856. Two of Gen. B.'s sons are lawyers of Talladega, and one of them, Col. Taul Bradford, was a field officer of both the 10th and 30th Alabama regiments.

Among the sacrifices our noble State made for the southern cause was the life of JOHN JEFFERSON WOODWARD. He was a native of Fairfield district, South Carolina, where his ancestors had been prominent for three generations. His father, John Woodward, was a planter, who served in both branches of the South Carolina legislature. The son, born in October 1808, was graduated at Columbia, and was soon after admitted to practice. But his fortune was ample, and he devoted his time to planting. In 1838 he came to this State, settled in Talladega, and pursued his occupation. But pecuniary losses obliged him to open a law office. In this he sustained himself well, and laid the foundation of an extensive practice. When Judge Stone left the bench, in January 1849, Gov. Chapman appointed Mr. Woodward to the vacancy, and the legislature elected him for a full term the following winter. When the election of judges was given to the people, in 1850, he was defeated for the position. The legislature soon after elected him district solicitor, and re-elected him subsequently; and he served several years. When the war called him from peaceful pursuits he entered the army as captain of a company in the 10th Alabama. Soon after reaching Virginia he became major, was advanced to lieutenant colonel in December, and in the latter capacity commanded the regiment at Williamsburg. As colonel, he led the Tenth at Seven Pines. He again led it at Cold Harbor, and in the great charge of Wilcox's division in triumph was ringing in his ear. His remains were taken to South Carolina and deposited by the side of his father's. Col. Woodward was tall and rather slender. His deportment was grave, and he was taciturn, though cheerful at times even to buoyancy. He was earnest, direct, candid; and his courage was of the kind which needs no passion to arouse it. Few men stood so high for solid worth and stainless honor. He was truly a lover of his country, and, had he not died for it, no one would have doubted his perfect willingness at any hour to have done so. He married a daughter of Hon. Philip E. Pearson, at one time of this county, and has a number of relatives in the State and county.

JAMEZ LAFAYETTE MONROE CURRY was a resident of this county. He is a native of Lincoln county, Georgia, where he was born in 1825. His father, Col. Wm. Curry, a planter and merchant, and a member of the Georgia legislature, came to Talladega in 1837, and died in 1856, quite wealthy. The mother of Mr. Curry was a Miss Winn, whose grandfather founded Winnsboro, S. C. Graduated at the University of Georgia, he took a law course at Harvard in 1845. He entered the profession as the partner of Mr. Andrew W. Bowie, but soon turned his attention to public topics, and rep-

Whereas the said Lt. Coll. John Upton in his lifetime made sale of a tract of land unto Mr. John Batte formerly made over as a jointure or dowry to feofees in trust for the use of the said Margaret as by a deed at large may appear. The Governour and Council of Virginia by order of Court at James City 29 November 1652 made good the value of the said Dowry so illegally alienated from the said Margaret and administratrix of the said Lt. Coll. John Upton according to the value of the consideration from the said Batts for the said land. It was ordered that the said Margaret should be satisfied out of the said estate the sum of 325 pounds Sterling. For the accomplishment as also towards the satisfying of other creditors to the said estate the said Margaret was empowered to bring to appraisement the lands of the said Lt. Coll. Upton by an order dated at James City 7 July 1653 and to pay herself in the first place in tobacco at the rate of 20 shillings pr. hundred she having proceeded and paid beyond the assets.

This indenture witnesseth that the said Margaret Upton for the sum of 4500 pounds of good merchantable tobacco and casque already paid and delivered by the said Francis Slaughter grant deliver and confirm unto him a tract of 850 acres of land lying on a branch of Warwis queak River now known as Newtown Haven on a branch which doth near butt upon the head of Pagan Creek. from the county of Worcester, and on the southeast of these, on the south bank of the Upper Severn, with yet ampler dimensions, stretches the county of Gloucester—all three counties touching each other at a common point near the city of Gloucester.

It was this district and from Somersetshire and the neighboring counties of Wales, and from Warwick on the north, Devon in the southwest, Herts and the Isle of Wight in the south, and across the Bristol Channel from the coasts of Ireland, that, in Virginia, the counties of Henrico, James City, Charles City, Isle of Wight, Gloucester, Surry, and Prince George, were in great part settled.

It is important to observe that the names of the early colonial settlers in the James River Valley up to Henricus City are the family names of Hereford, Gloucester, and Worcester, and the neighboring districts referred to in England, Wales, and Ireland. This would at once become apparent to any one familiar with the history of the Virginia colonists, who would take the trouble to consult for a moment Walford's "County Families of the United Kingdom." London: Robert Hardwicke, 1860.

The names "Berkeley," "Bruton," "Shirley," and "Malvern Hills," on James River; Gloucester, Surry, Isle of Wight, Southampton, Warwick, Lancaster, prove the same thing.

"Berkeley" is from the Berkeleys of Bruton in Somersetshire, and the Berkeleys of Gloucester.* "Shirley" is probably after the Shirleys of Warwickshire. "Malvern Hills" is, of course, from Malvern Hills in Hereford and Worcester.

In 1636 Richard Cock, gentleman, patented 3,000 acres of land in Henrico, adjoining the land of John Pearce and Thomas Harris; in 1639 he patented 2,000 acres; in 1652, 2,842 acres; in 1664 Richard Cocke, Sr., and John Beauchamp patented together 2,974 acres on the south side of Chickahominy river. Cox, Cocks, Coxe, are family names in Hereford; the Beauchamps were from Worcestershire; Harris is a Gloucestershire name; Pearce is a very old Welsh name, Co. Brecon. A near neighbor of these was the Lygons from Worcestershire.

The Carys intermarried with the family of Richard Cocke about 1690. This was a Devonshire family, in the southwest of England, as were the Brays and Dukes; the Powells, Tylers, Lewis', Jennings, Llewellyns [Llewellyn Elys], the Jones' (Anthony Jones was Burgess from Isle of Wight, 1639), are Welsh names; Webb and Dennis are Hereford and

*Sir Maurice Berkeley, of Gloucestershire; Sir Charles Berkeley (son of Sir Maurice), of Bruton, Somersetshire; Richard Berkeley, Esquire, of Gloucester, who, with John Smyth, George Thorpe, and Sir Wm. Throgmorton, jointly owned and named the Berkeley-Hundred plantation.

This John Smyth (d. 1641) was no doubt the ancestor of John Smyth, who was a Burgess from Percies Point in 1632, and the John Smyth, of Warwick, who was Speaker of the House of Burgesses in 1658. Probably of Nicholas Smith and Arthur Smith, justices of Isle of Wight, 1680; and of John Smith, of Gloucester, 1702, and of Phil. Smith, sheriff of Gloucester, 1714.

Gloucester names. Secretary Thomas Ludwell was from Bruton, in Somerset, as was Captain Pawlett, member of House of Burgesses, 1619; Throgmorton is a family name in Warwck, as is probably Randolph; Bathurst and Wyatt are Gloucester names; Carter, a family in Hampshire and Isle of Wight; Archer, a very ancient family in Devon and Cornwall; Pryor, in Herts; Browne, in Hereford and Lancaster; Farrer, in West Riding of Yorkshire; Woodward (Eliz. Cocke married Lawrence Woodward, a descendant of Christopher Woodward, Burgess of James City county, 1629) is a family in Worcestershire; Dennis (Richard Dennis was sheriff of Charles City county in 1714) is an Irish family; so were the Battes. Peter Jones must have been Welsh, as he had a son or grandson named Cadwallader.

All these families lived near to the Gloucestershire port of Bristol, and almost within view of the summits of Malvern Hills.*

The head of the Cocks family in England, in 1860, was CHARLES SOMERS SOMERS-COCKS, of Eastnor Castle, near Ledbury, Herefordshire, his magnificent seat, being situated at the base of the Malvern Hills, about midway between the cities of Gloucester and Worcester. The heir-presumptive to the Barony of Somers was his cousin, the REV. CHARLES RICHARD SOMERS-COCKS, magistrate for Herefordshire.

THOMAS SOMERS COCKS, Esquire, of Thames Bank, near Great Marlow, Bucks, represented a younger branch of the family, and married Agneta, daughter of Right Hon. Reginald Pole Carew, of Antony, Cornwall.

REGINALD THISBLETHWAYTHE COCKS was a brother of above.

Lieutenant-Colonel CHARLES LYGON COCKS†, of Treverlyn-Vean, Cornwall, was a third brother.

RICHARD SNEAD COX, Esquire, of Broxwood Court, magistrate and Dep. Lieutenant for County Hereford (High Sheriff 1858), was doubtless of same stock.

SIR WILLIAM COX, K. T. S., Ireland, was a lineal descendant of Dr. Richard Cox, one of the compilers of the Liturgy, and tutor to Edward VI.

ARTHUR ZACHARY COX, Esquire, of Harwood Hall, Essex, is another of this name.

EDWARD TOWNSEND COX, Esquire, of Balsall Heath, Worcestershire, belongs to a family which came over with William the Conquerer.

* "In 1685 William Slaughter," says the William and Mary College Quarterly, "was sheriff of Essex county. In Burk, 'Slaughter of Cos Gloucester, Hereford, and Worcester.'" January, '94, p. 157. Can it be that this district bore for a brief period this name—as for a brief period it did that of "Rappahannock"? Were the settlers on the Rappahannock also from 'Gloucester, Hereford, and Worcester'?

† In Henrico the Cocks, the Lygons, and the Beauchamps were near neighbors. In England the Cocks family had intermarried with the Lygons, and the Lygons had intermarried with the Beauchamps—all three families living in Worcestershire and Herefordshire. Earl Beauchamp's name (1860) was Henry Beauchamp Lygon (of Madresfield Court, Worcester).

agriculture, he was appointed by its founder, the late Hon. Thomas G. Clemson, a life trustee of the Clemson Agricultural college, the richest endowed of its kind in the south. He is president of the Piedmont farmers' society, the oldest in the state and second oldest in the United States, and which has enrolled among its members such distinguished men as Thomas Pinckney, Andrew Pickens, C. C. Pinckney, Josiah D. Gaillard, J. C. Calhoun, Thomas G. Clemson and others. Col. Norris was prominently spoken of for governor in 1888 and was selected as the farmers' candidate for congress from his district (3rd), in 1890. He made a masterly fight against three of the ablest lawyers in the district, and was only defeated by twenty-three votes in a total of over 1,000. Col. Norris is a deacon in the Pentecost Baptist church, of dignified demeanor, commanding personal appearance, with a well-balanced mind, clear head and untiring energy. Being well down in the forties, he has the promise of much honorable usefulness before him. The Charleston World, of May 16, 1890, says "Col. Daniel Keating Norris is said to own the finest country place in Anderson county, Hickory Flat, where he with his accomplished wife dispenses a charming hospitality. His father was a successful and wealthy ante bellum planter, and under his training and influence his son obtained an all-absorbing love and pride for his avocation which he has uninterruptedly and successfully pursued. His close intimacy, with observation and intelligent comprehension of affairs and agriculture generally, since the war, had long since convinced him of the necessity of a better equipment for those who would engage in it, and upon the commencement of the agitation four years ago, for the establishment of an agriculture college, he at once came to the front as one of its warmest friends. Two years later when the opposition seemed to have triumphed, as president of the State Farmers association, he issued his bold and hopeful address to the friends of agricultural education, headed, "Don't Give up the Ship," which re-established confidence and faith in the ultimate success of the movement. His prominence and well known views made it easy for Mr. Clemson to name him as one of his trustees, and the board will have in him one of its most zealous members." Col. Norris is a member of the general committee of the Pan-Republic congress, having been elected in 1881, to fill one of the vacancies caused by death.

HON. THOMAS W. WOODWARD.

The Woodward family is one of the oldest American connections. It has furnished men of patriotic sentiments, many of whom have been distinguished for great gallantry on their country's battlefields, since its settlement in the new world many generations ago. The Hon. Thomas W. Woodward, the immediate subject of this biographical mention, is the great-grandson of Thomas Woodward, a Virginian, whose father was also named Thomas. The latter was born near Annapolis, Md., his ancestors having come to this country from England with George Calvert Baron, of Baltimore, and settled in Maryland, A. D. 1634. The name, Woodward, is derived from the occupation of those who were wood wards — one who protects a forest, and indicates that the family is of gentle origin, and originated in the time of William of Normandy, 1066. Thomas the elder, was married twice. After the death of his first wife, who bore him several children, he removed to Fairfax county, Va., and there married Elizabeth Simpson, a lady of Scotch parentage. Their one son was Thomas, "The Regulator." He distinguished himself in the French and Indian wars. His marriage resulted in the birth of four daughters and two sons, the names of the latter being John and William. Both served in the Revolution as patriotic soldiers. Some time after the independence of the states had been established William was elected to Congress, and in after years, became a Baptist clergyman, and died at Chester, S. C. John died at an advanced age in Fairfax county, S. C. Thomas, the father of the Regulator, came to Fairfax county, S. C., several years prior to the Revolution, and at the outbreak of that struggle raised one of the first companies to serve in the Colonial army. He was killed on Dutchman's creek, in Fairfax county, S. C., in a fight with the British and Tories, May 12, 1779. He was noted for his dauntless courage, as have been, indeed, all his family, and was a man of rugged honesty and gentlemanly instincts. He married for his second wife the widow May, a lady of Indian blood, and seven children were born to them. John Woodward was a captain in the Revolution. He married Lemima Collins, and became the father of three sons and three daughters. John spent the rest of his days in Fairfax county as a planter. One of his sons was William T. Woodward, the father of our subject. He was graduated from the South Carolina college, and followed in his father's footsteps as a planter. For several terms he served in the state legislature with efficiency. Harriet Smart, a lady of rare accomplishments, a native of South Carolina, became his wife, and bore him three children, two daughters and one son. The Hon. Thomas Woodward, the son above mentioned, was born on the plantation in Fairfax county, S. C., which has been in his family since a portion of it was granted to Thomas the Regulator by King George III. His birth occurred May 7, 1833. He was given every educational advantage, having first attended the Mount Zion college, later Shirley's institute, and then Wake Forest college, of North Carolina, where he spent a few months in 1847. In the fall of 1848 he entered the South Carolina college. His collegiate career was cut short in his junior year by his participation in the famous "Steward Hall rebellion," when he was expelled with 107 others. His mother died in his childhood, and he was but a lad when his father's death left him an orphan under the care of his uncle, Mr. Osmund Woodward, his father's executor. February 15, 1855, Mr. Woodward very happily married Miss Cornelia M. Dantzler, of Orangeburg, S. C., and at that time settled on his plantation, and turned his attention to the calling of his fathers. Mrs. Woodward died in 1878. Miss Rebecca V. Lyles, daughter of Capt. Thomas M. Lyles, a grandson of the first white settler in Fairfax county, became his second wife. In 1860-1 Fairfax county elected Mr. Woodward its representative in the legislature, and he was a member of the session which called the convention of secession, and his vote was cast for that measure. He volunteered as a private in the Fairfax Fencibles at the outbreak of the Civil war, and upon the organization of the Sixth South Carolina volunteer regiment he was elected major. He was seriously wounded at the battle of Dranesville. Subsequently he re-enlisted as a private, and was tendered the office of quartermaster of the Twentieth volunteer regiment. Acting in that capacity Mr. Woodward served during the remaining years of the war. His regiment was attached to Kershaw's brigade when they went into Virginia, and Major Woodward surrendered with Johnston at Greensboro. Returning to his home after the last struggle of the Confederacy, he resumed his occupation as a planter, and has since continued with increasing success. As acting chairman of the Fairfax county democratic committee in 1876, Mr. Woodward rendered distinguished aid to the cause of white supremacy and purity in politics in the state. He has always been a staunch and loyal supporter of the democratic party, and has antagonized every movement that, in his opinion, would detract from the success of democracy. In 1890 he took a bold stand against the farmers' alliance movement, as conducted, and voted and worked against the election of Gov. Tillman. Major Woodward was elected senator to represent his county in 1884, and was re-elected in 1888, both elections having been without opposition.

HON. JOHN BRATTON.

One of the most distinguished gentlemen of South Carolina is the Hon. John Bratton, the descendant of a family that has been identified with the development of South Carolina since its reception into the union of states. From time to time its members have been honored by the people with important trusts, and during the Revolution none fought more valiantly for independence of government than they. Col. William Bratton especially distinguished himself during the struggle of the colonies for liberty. His career is so conspicuous in the history of the Revolution, that it is not necessary to give it in detail here. Suffice it to say that Col. William Bratton was a Virginian of the noblest descent. Prior to the Revolution he came, with several kinsmen, to York county, S. C., and rose to great prominence in his new home; first, as a planter, and then as the leader of the York county forces, who fought in the war for American independence under Sumter. His son William was among the first pupils and graduates in Mount Zion college, of Winnsboro, S. C., and after severing his connection with that famous institution, he made Winnsboro his home, and passed the remainder of his life there. Receiving a thorough medical training, under the tutelage of Dr. Rush, a celebrated physician, of Philadelphia, William Bratton devoted the greater part of his life to that noble calling, and rose to eminence as a most skill-

a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to its healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Head-

symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

men assembled here, principally from north Alabama, but within a few days they marched to Fort Mitchell, in Russell.

During the late war between the States, a body of federal cavalry, estimated at nearly two thousand men, under Gen. Rossau of Kentucky, left the Tennessee valley, and pushed rapidly down the valley of the Coosa. They struck the railroad at Loachapoka, July 11, 1864, and began to destroy the track. The next morning, about half of them moved down the road to destroy the huge bridge over Ufauntee creek. At Bearby's tank, a mile and a half from Cheha, about four hundred of the State reserves—principally youths—moved up on a train, but were imprudently disembarked under the fire of the raiders. Forming in line of battle, this force moved upon the enemy, but found themselves in an ambuscade, from which they were driven back a short distance. They again advanced, reinforced by a number of citizens, and the raiding party abruptly abandoned the field and overtook their comrades at Auburn. The railroad track was torn up for twenty-five miles by this daring force, which moved in a northeasterly direction from Opelika, and made safe its retreat. The Confederate loss at Cheha was six or eight killed, and about sixty wounded. The Federal loss was something less.

→ THOMAS S. WOODWARD, who first settled on the ridge on which Tuskegee is built, was a famous character in this portion of the State. He was born in Elbert county, Georgia, and was reared on the frontier and among the Indians. He was in this country as early as 1810, and was an officer in the Florida war of 1817-18. He was a brigadier general of militia, and as such went to the Chattahoochee to meet Gen. Lafayette, whom he accompanied to Cahaba. He removed to Arkansas in 1841, and from there to Winn Parish, Louisiana, in 1853, and there died in 1861. He wrote a small volume of reminiscences about the Indians, which attempts to confute many of the statements made by Pickett, Meek, Coxe, and others, which have been in part adopted in this volume. He was an interesting man, tall and erect, and brusque in manner. → He was a cousin of Hon. Joseph A. Woodward of Talladega and of Rev. Wm. Woodward of Chocta, but had Indian blood in his veins.

(c) Descendants of Nathaniel West

Until recently it was only known that Nathaniel West married a lady whose first name was Martha. The publication of a note from the King William Co. records in the Virginia Magazine shows that her family name was Woodward. The note shows that Gideon Macon, of New Kent, and Capt. Thomas Spencer, in right of their wives, Martha and Anne, daughters and heirs of William Woodward, deceased, were seized of certain property. Gideon Macon was dead, and the widow was married to Capt. Nathaniel West. Division of Estate. Survey by James Minge. (Va Magazine XXXI, p. 343.) Nathaniel West and his wife Martha Woodward had one daughter Unity, who married William Dandridge and made her will about 1753. (Hening, Stats. at Large, VI, p. 428). They had issue (1) Capt. Nathaniel West Dandridge, of the Royal Navy, who married Dorothea, daughter of Governor Alexander Spotswood (2) William, who married his cousin Agnes West, daughter of Col. Francis West, (3) Elizabeth married Philip Whitehead Claiborne (4) Anne married Mr. Dancy (5) Martha married Philip Aylett and (6) Mary married John Spotswood, son of Governor Spotswood (William and Mary Quarterly, V., p. 140.)

is likely that his son Francis, who was by an earlier marriage, may have accompanied him, and finally settled in New England. About six years ago Mr. Douglas H. But owing to a mistake in the name of Sackville West, which he rendered "Sackfield West," he later sent a fuller copy of the inscription on the front and back of the tombstone. CHAPTER XXII

THE COUNTY OF CHOCTA.

Chocta was established by an act of the legislature, approved December 29, 1847, and two tiers of its townships were taken from Sumter and five from Washington. It is in the western portion of the State, and bounded north by Sumter, south by Washington, east by Marengo and Clarke, and west by the State of Mississippi. The name preserves the remembrance of the most docile and numerous of all the aboriginal tribes of the United States, who possessed the soil now embraced within its limits from a time "whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary."
Its area is something over 900 square miles.

The assessed value of property is $1,104,975, viz: real estate $821,732; personalty $283,243. The following shows the decennial movement of population:

Table with 2 columns: Year (1850, 1860, 1870) and Population (Whites, Blacks). Whites: 4620 (1850), 6767 (1860), 7110 (1870). Blacks: 3769 (1850), 6767 (1860), 7110 (1870).

The lands are rolling and flat. The ridges and pine lands are sandy, but the river and creek "bottoms" are alluvial. The pine forests are extensive, and will be made a source of wealth. Grazing for cattle is excellent in the outlying lands. The farm lands are valued at $946,850, and embrace 79,502 acres improved, and 220,329 acres unimproved. The value of live stock in 1870 was $409,509, and consisted of 1313 horses, 941 mules, 10,236 neat cattle, 2940 sheep, and 14,082 hogs.

The productions in 1869 were 227,715 bushels of corn, 51,759 bushels of potatoes, 29,146 pounds of butter, 6439 bales of cotton, 3356 pounds of wool; the value of animals slaughtered was $67,823; and the value of farm productions was $908,562.

The Tombikbee river is the eastern boundary line, and is open to steam navigation the entire year. There are mineral waters in the county, and Bladon Springs have attained to a wide celebrity.

BUTLER, the seat of justice, has about 200 inhabitants. It was named to honor Col. Pierce M. Butler of South Carolina, killed at the battle of Cherrubusco, in 1847. Bladon Springs has about 350, and Mount Stirling about 300 inhabitants.

WILLIAM WOODWARD resided in this county. He was born in York district, South Carolina, November 15, 1792, of a family well known in that State. His parents were poor, and his education was plain. He became a planter, and removed to Chester district in 1820. After serving three years in the legislature he removed to Georgia, and in 1834 came to this State. He settled in Greene county, but four years later removed to that portion of Sumter now embraced in Chocta. In 1841 he represented Sumter in the house, where he continued for 7 years. He was an advocate of the formation of Chocta, and in 1853 was elected to the State senate from Sumter, Washington, and Chocta, defeating Hon. Devereux Hopkins. Two years later he was beaten, but in 1857 was elected over Mr. Micajah McGee of Sumter. He retired from public life in 1861, and resided on his plantation till his death in (September 1871). About 1840 he was ordained elder in the Baptist church, and for 18 years was pastor of a congrega-

The lands are rolling and flat. The ridges and pine lands are sandy, but the river and creek "bottoms" are alluvial. The pine forests are extensive, and will be made a source of wealth. Grazing for cattle is excellent in the outlying lands. The farm lands are valued at $946,850, and embrace 79,502 acres improved, and 220,329 acres unimproved.

The value of live stock in 1870 was $409,400, and consisted of 1313 horses, 941 mules, 10,256 neat cattle, 2940 sheep, and 14,082 hogs.

The Tombikbee river is the eastern boundary line, and is open to steam navigation the entire year.

There are mineral waters in the county, and Bladon Springs have attained to a wide celebrity.

of South Carolina, killed at the battle of Cherubusco which was fought but a few months prior to the meeting of that Legislature. The act establishing the county provided that two tiers of townships, that is twelve miles, be taken from Sumter, and five tiers of thirty miles be taken from Washington County. The first county election was held in February 1848. Jesse Jackson, John Phillips, John Price, Issac Horn and Thomas S. Parker were the permanently named commission to fix the site of the county seat. H. J. Y. Moss and Reuben Read were first named but they did not serve. Mr. Moss was the first clerk of the Circuit Court. James G. Slater was the first sheriff and George F. Smith was the first County Judge. The original county commissioners were directed to sell a quarter of a section of land to defray the expenses of erecting the jail and Court House. While efforts have been made to move the county seat, there has been no attempt since 1860.

William Woodward, as a member of the Legislature from Sumter County, promoted the formation of Choctaw. He was a resident of that section which became the new county and was the first Senator from the county. Edward McCall was the first member of the House of Representatives sent from the county. Mr. Woodward was born in York district, S. C., November 15, 1792. He served in the Legislature for three years from Chester District to which he removed in 1820. This "plain blunt man" was a Baptist minister and by his practical sense and integrity "won the esteem of his fellow man." After defeating Micajah McGee of Sumter for the State Senate in 1857, he served for four years and retired from politics in 1861. Mr. Woodward spent the evening of his life on his plantation in northern Choctaw and his sun "set" in September, 1871.

Thomas McCarrell Prince, a wealthy planter, was the only man who ever defeated Mr. Woodward for office. He beat him in the contest for the Senate in 1855. Mr. Prince was born in North Carolina and graduated from the University of that state in 1827.

Choctaw has enjoyed railroad facilities for only a few years. The Alabama, Tennessee and Northern Railway was built through the county in 1910. For years this was the only motor driven train operating in Alabama. Butler, the seat of the courthouse, Pushmataha, Mount Sterling and Robjohn, population centers, are all off the railroad. county, where they remained until 1834. They then moved to Talladega county, where Mr. Wood remained the rest of his life. Previous to the war he was one of the most extensive planters in Talladega county, owning some 3,000 acres of land, and he was one of the largest slave holders in the state. His death occurred in 1881. His wife was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. Joshua Wood, the paternal grandfather of Ashley C., was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, as was also his maternal grandfather, Agrippa Atkin. Ashley C. Wood came to Talladega county with his parents when two years old, received a good education and remained with them until he attained mature years. In 1849 he entered the college at Talladega, and remained two years. He then entered the state university at Tuscaloosa, but after spending two years there he was compelled to abandon college on account of failing health. Soon, however, he entered the office of Elmore & Yancey, at Montgomery, and began the study of law. He was admitted to the bar in 1857, and has since been engaged in the practice of his profession except during the time he served in the late war. In 1862 he enlisted in company F. Capt. N. D. Johnson, Fifty-first Alabama regiment, and served until the close of the war. He was the legal adviser of the western army and was sent with Gen. Johnston to Augusta, Ga., at the time of the surrender. After the close of the war he returned to the county of Talladega and resumed the practice of law. Through his practice and through the property left him by his father he has now a handsome competency. He owns a large tract of land which his father opened in the pioneer days of the state. He is one of the foremost, one of the most substantial and one of the best citizens of the county, as well as being one of the best lawyers. He is a republican in politics and one of the strongest veterans in the doctrine of protection to American industries. On March 10, 1858, Mr. Wood married Josephine Brooks, of South Carolina. Her parents were I. L. and Sarah (Oliver) Brooks. Her father was a Baptist minister of national reputation. To this union several children were born, five of whom are living, viz.: Clinton A., Cornelia R., Walk, Julia and Frank. The mother of these children was a native of South Carolina and was of one of the old pioneer families of that state. She was a member of the Baptist church and died in 1887. In 1889, Mr. Wood married Mrs. Susan Pruett, daughter of Washington and Rachel (Vardaman) Robinson, who were natives of Georgia and came to Alabama about 1830. The father is now living at eighty-three years of age. Mrs. Wood is a member of the Baptist church.

J. B. WOODWARD, a leading merchant of Talladega, was born December 7, 1846. He is the eldest son of J. A. and Minerva (Rice) Woodward. The former, Hon. Joseph A. Woodward, was a native of Fairfield district, S. C., and was born April 11, 1806. He was the son of Hon. William Woodward who, while he was a practicing physician and a minister of the gospel, was at the same time a prominent politician, and served in congress several terms. The father of Hon. William Woodward, Thomas Woodward, was known in the history of South Carolina as the "Regulator." Hon. Joseph A. Woodward had several brothers of distinction, two of whom came to Alabama, Thomas B. and Rev. William Woodward. The latter resided for several years in Sumter county, Ala., where he was pastor of Baptist churches, and frequently represented that county in the lower house of the legislature. The father of J. B. Woodward came to Alabama in 1860, and settled in Talladega county, where he remained until his death. He was a graduate of the state university of South Carolina at Columbia, then under the presidency of Dr. Cooper, and was entirely familiar with the Latin classics, and took great delight in Greek literature. He was a lawyer by profession, and while in South Carolina led a very distinguished career as a lawyer, successfully arguing several very important cases before the courts in Washington, D. C. He served several terms in the legislature of South Carolina, and in 1843 was elected to congress from the Winnsboro district, and was returned to his seat in the halls of congress for five consecutive terms, giving entire satisfaction to his constituency, and finally retiring because he did not desire longer to serve. He was a statesman of the broadest views. He was a friend and lifelong admirer of Hon. John C. Calhoun, and though he differed widely in his views of public policy from Hon. Horace Greeley, yet he was a friend of Mr. Greeley and kept up a correspondence with him until that gentleman's death in 1872. Mr. Woodward was well informed upon all subjects of general interest, and his life was one of constant and unswerving integrity throughout. On his death-bed he expressed himself as having no fear. Some of his last utterances were: "I am ready to die;" "God has provided a place for me;" "I am not dying by accident or mere chance, it is God that is killing me, and it is right;" "I am done with this world and am ready for the next;" "I shall soon be in the region of great festivities." J. B. Woodward received a good common school education, but the war coming on cut his education short. In 1862, when but sixteen years of age, he offered his services to the southern cause, enlisting in the first company of Washington artillery of New Orleans, under Capt. Charles Squires, and serving until the surrender of Lee. He was with his battalion in all its battles after joining, except the one at Drewry's bluff. After the war he returned to Talladega, and at first accepted a position in a store as clerk, in which position he remained several years. He then formed a co-partnership with I. B. Merriam of New York, doing a general merchandise business in the town of Talladega, after which he formed a partnership with his father-in-law, J. P. Wood, under the firm name of J. P. Wood & Co., which name has never been changed to this time. He has served as alderman of Talladega several years, and is a member of the Knights of Honor. In 1877 he married, and by this marriage has two children, Rice, a son, and Pinckney C., a daughter. Mr. Woodward and his wife are members of agriculture, he was appointed by its founder, the late Hon. Thomas G. Clemson, a life trustee of the Clemson Agricultural college, the richest endowed of its kind in the south. He is president of the Pendleton farmers' society, the oldest in the state and second oldest in the United States, and which has enrolled among its members such distinguished men as Thomas Pinckney, Andrew Pickens, C. C. Pinckney, Josiah D. Gaillard, J. C. Calhoun, Thomas G. Clemson and others. Col. Norris was prominently spoken of for governor in 1888, and was selected as the farmers' candidate for congress from his district (3rd), in 1890. He made a masterly fight against three of the ablest lawyers in the district, and was only defeated by twenty-three votes in a total of over 11,000. Col. Norris is a deacon in the Pendleton Baptist church, of dignified demeanor, commanding personal appearance, with a well-balanced mind, clear head and untiring energy. Being well down in the forties, he has the promise of much honorable usefulness before him. The Charleston World, of May 16, 1890, says: "Col. Daniel Keating Norris is said to own the finest country place in Anderson county, Hickory Flat, where he with his accomplished wife dispenses a charming hospitality. His father was a successful and wealthy ante bellum planter, and under his training and influence which he has uninterruptedly and successfully pursued. His close intimacy, with observation and intelligent comprehension of affairs and agriculture generally, since the war, had long since convinced him of the necessity of a better equipment for those who would engage in it, and upon the commencement of the agitation four years ago, for the establishment of an agriculture college, he at once came to the front as one of its warmest friends. Two years later when the opposition seemed to have triumphed, as president of the State Farmers' association, he issued his bold and hopeful address to the friends of agricultural education, headed, "Don't Give up the Ship," which re-established confidence and faith in the ultimate success of the movement. His prominence and well known views made it easy for Mr. Clemson to name him as one of his trustees, and the board will have in him one of its most zealous members." Col. Norris is a member of the general committee of the Pan-Republic congress, having been elected in 1881, to fill one of the vacancies caused by death.

HON. THOMAS W. WOODWARD.

The Woodward family is one of the oldest American connections. It has furnished men of patriotic sentiments, many of whom have been distinguished for great gallantry on their country's battlefields, since its settlement in the new world many generations ago. The Hon. Thomas W. Woodward, the immediate subject of this biographical mention, is the great-grandson of Thomas Woodward, a Virginian, whose father was also named Thomas. The latter was born near Annapolis, Md., his ancestors having come to this country from England with George Calvert Baron, of Baltimore, and settled in

Gov. Maryland, A. D. 1634. The name, Woodward, is derived from the occupation of those who were wood wards — one who protects a forest, and indicates that the family is of gentle origin, and originated in the time of William of Normandy, 1066. Thomas the elder, was married twice. After the death of his first wife, who bore him several children, he removed to Fairfax county, Va., and there married Elizabeth Simpson, a lady of Scotch parentage. Their one son was Thomas, "The Regulator." He distinguished himself in the French and Indian wars. His marriage resulted in the birth of four daughters and two sons, the names of the latter being John and William. Both served in the Revolution as patriotic soldiers. Some time after the independence of the states had been established William was elected to congress, and in after years became a Baptist clergyman, and died at Chester, S. C. John died at an advanced age in Fairfax county, S. C. Thomas, the father of the Regulator, came to Fairfax county, S. C., several years prior to the Revolution, and at the outbreak of that struggle raised one of the first companies to serve in the Colonial army. He was killed on Dutchman's creek, in Fairfax county, S. C., in a fight with the British and Tories, May 12, 1779. He was noted for his dauntless courage, as have been, indeed, all his family, and was a man of rugged honesty and gentlemanly instincts. He married for his second wife the widow May, a lady of Indian blood, and seven children were born to them. John Woodward was a captain in the Revolution. He married Lemima Collins, and became the father of three sons and three daughters. John spent the rest of his days in Fairfax county as a planter. One of his sons was William T. Woodward, the father of our subject. He was graduated from the South Carolina college, and followed in his father's footsteps as a planter. For several terms he served in the state legislature with efficiency. Harriet Smart, a lady of rare accomplishments, a native of South Carolina, became his wife, and bore him three children, two daughters and one son. The Hon. Thomas W. Woodward, the son above mentioned, was born on the plantation in Fairfax county, S. C., which has been in his family since a portion of it was granted to Thomas the Regulator by King George III. His birth occurred May 7, 1833. He was given every educational advantage, having first attended the Mount Zion college, later Shirley's institute, and then Wake Forest college, of North Carolina, where he spent a few months in 1847. In the fall of 1848 he entered the South Carolina college. His collegiate career was cut short in his junior year by his participation in the famous "Steward Hall rebellion," when he was expelled with 107 others. His mother died in his childhood, and he was but a lad when his father's death left him an orphan under the care of his uncle, Mr. Osmund Woodward, his father's executor. February 15, 1855, Mr. Woodward very happily married Miss Cornelia M. Dantzier, of Orangeburg, S. C., and at that time settled on his plantation, and turned his attention to the calling of his fathers. Mrs. Woodward died in 1878. Miss Rebecca V. Lyles, daughter of Capt. Thomas M. Lyles, a grandson of the first white settler in Fairfax county, became his second wife. In 1860-1 Fairfax county elected Mr. Woodward its representative in the legislature, and he was a member of the session which called the convention of secession, and his vote was cast for that measure. He volunteered as a private in the Fairfax Fencibles, at the outbreak of the Civil war, and upon the organization of the Sixth South Carolina volunteer regiment he was elected major. He was seriously wounded at the battle of Dranesville. Subsequently he re-enlisted as a private, and was tendered the office of quartermaster of the Twentieth volunteer regiment. Acting in that capacity Mr. Woodward served during the remaining years of the war. His regiment was attached to Kershaw's brigade when they went into Virginia, and Major Woodward surrendered with Johnston at Greensboro. Returning to his home after the last struggle of the Confederacy, he resumed his occupation as a planter, and has since continued with increasing success. As acting chairman of the Fairfax county democratic committee in 1876, Mr. Woodward rendered distinguished aid to the cause of white supremacy and purity in politics in the state. He has always been a staunch and loyal supporter of the democratic party, and has antagonized every movement that, in his opinion, would detract from the success of democracy. In 1890 he took a bold stand against the farmers' alliance movement, as conducted, and voted and worked against the election of Gov. Tillman. Major Woodward was elected senator to represent his county in 1884, and was re-elected in 1888, both elections having been without opposition.

HON. JOHN BRATTON.

One of the most distinguished gentlemen of South Carolina is the Hon. John Bratton, the descendant of a family that has been identified with the development of South Carolina since its reception into the union of states. From time to time its members have been honored by the people with important trusts, and during the Revolution none fought more valiantly for independence of government than they. Col. William Bratton especially distinguished himself during the struggle of the colonies for liberty. His career is so conspicuous in the history of the Revolution, that it is not necessary to give it in detail here. Suffice it to say that Col. William Bratton was a Virginian of the noblest descent. Prior to the Revolution he came, with several kinsmen, to York county, S. C., and rose to great prominence in his new home; first, as a planter, and then as the leader of the York county forces, who fought in the war for American independence under Sumter. His son William was among the first pupils and graduates in Mount Zion college, of Wintnsboro, S. C., and after severing his connection with that famous institution, he made Wintnsboro his home, and passed the remainder of his life there. Receiving a thorough medical training, under the tutelage of Dr. Rush, a celebrated physician, of Philadelphia, William Bratton devoted the greater part of his life to that noble calling, and rose to eminence as a most skill-

Dartmouth College v. Woodward

The case of Dartmouth College v. Woodward (1819) involved an early interpretation of the contract clause of the U.S. Constitution. In 1816 the New Hampshire legislature amended the original charter of Dartmouth College. The incumbent trustees refused to recognize the new legislation and brought suit against William Woodward, the secretary and treasurer of the college, to recover corporate property entrusted to him under the legislation. After losing in the New Hampshire courts, the trustees appealed to the Supreme Court, where their case was argued by Daniel WEBSTER. Chief Justice MARSHALL rendered the opinion, adopting many of Webster's arguments.

In Marshall's view the case raised two crucial issues. First, was the charter of a private corporation a contract within the meaning of the contract clause of the Constitution? Second, if so, was it impaired by the acts of the New Hampshire legislature? The chief justice answered both questions affirmatively. New Hampshire, in reorganizing the college, was not acting "according to the will of the donors," and the legislation was "subversive of that contract, on the faith of which their property was given." This case was significant because it gave judicial protection against state interference with corporate contracts, and it enhanced the growth of corporate enterprise in the United States.

JOHN FARRAR of Croxton co Lincoln, m. SISSELY daughter of William Kelk of Barnaby co Lincoln; Issue:

Henry, see below
John
WILLIAM
Humphrey

HENRY FARRER, of Great Amwell co Hertford, eldest son, now living, 1634; m. Martha daughter of Sir John Woodward. Issue:

John; Henry; Catherine; SISSELY

This is the exact data as given in the Visitation—that is, it being furnished the Herald visiting Hertfordshire in 1634, by Henry Farrar as his pedigree for himself and his family, he did not bother to give the data for his three brothers, beyond their names and recording them as children of his father, as was customary in such Visitations unless the various branches lived within the same district "visited". The will of John Farrar in the following Appendix leaves no room for doubt that William Farrar of Farrar's Island, Henrico County, Virginia, was the William of this line.

APPENDIX II.

WILL OF FATHER OF WILLIAM FARRAR OF FARRAR'S ISLAND, VIRGINIA

(Reprint from Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, Volume XXII, page 398, in "Virginia Gleanings in England, Communicated by Lothrop Withington, London. . . .")

- 30th, 1793, Averilla Vaughan. He married 2nd, June 30th 1803, Ann McIntire. Left issue by both wives.
33. x Nicholas⁷ Gorsuch (Charles⁶, Charles⁵, Charles⁴). Born 1774. Died May 26th, 1839. Married 1st Nancy Glenn; married 2nd Agnes Glenn. Left no issue.
- xi Sarah⁷ Gorsuch (Charles⁶, Charles⁵, Charles⁴). Born about 1764. Married Abraham Hicks by license March 2nd, 1781. Living 1794 when she received £15 from her father's estate.
- xii Ruth⁷ Gorsuch (Charles⁶, Charles⁵, Charles⁴). Born about 1766. Married Charles Peregoy, by license June 15th, 1785. She had two daughters living 1849, viz: Ann married Elias Read, and Elizabeth married George Shipley (Balto. Deeds *411; 445).

12. Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch (Charles⁵, Charles⁴). He was the fourth son of Charles⁵ Gorsuch, and the second son by his second wife Sarah Cole. He was born October 17th, 1730. (St. Paul's Register). and was living as late as 1796. The name of his first wife is not known. He married secondly July 17th, 1760, Kerenhappuch Johnson (St. John's Register). She was probably the daughter of Jacob Johnson, who leased part of Clynmalyra from Charles Carroll in 1766. The names of three sons, Charles, Nathan and Thomas, have been learned indirectly from deeds. It is quite probably that he had at least another son Jacob*, and that he also had daughters. There is a deed February 8th, 1762, from John Woodward of Baltimore County, and his wife Elizabeth, conveying for a nominal consideration, part of lot No. 39 in Baltimore Town to his nephew Nathan, with reversion to his nephew Charles, respectively the youngest and eldest sons of Benjamin Gorsuch; and the same day he conveys the remainder of the same lot to David⁶ Gorsuch [a brother of Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch] (Balto. Deeds B. No. 1, 490, 491). There is another deed, dated August 3rd, 1798, executed by Thomas Gorsuch of Benjamin for land bought in 1794 by the grantor (idem W. J. No. 56, 138). As a witness of the will of William Sinclair, February 13th, 1793, Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch made his mark. This Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch must be carefully distinguished from his nephew Benjamin⁷ Gorsuch (Charles⁶, Charles⁵, Charles⁴) who was not a marksman. Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch appears in the "Tax List of 1783" and in the "Census of 1790" as living in Mine Run Hundred, on "175 acres, part of Carroll's Manor", apparently in what is now the north eastern part of Baltimore County, which he may have inherited from his wife Kerenhappuch Johnson. His sons Charles and Nathan were certainly children of his first marriage. The maternity of Thomas is uncertain.

*Jacob Gorsuch, January 21st, 1796, married by license Elizabeth Hetherton. Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch and Jacob Gorsuch, February 13th, 1793, witnessed the will of William Sinclair, Jacob signing his name, and Benjamin making his mark. January 21st, 1910, Jacob Gorsuch, of Baltimore City, and his wife Elizabeth executed a deed (Balto. Deeds W. G. No. 109, 276). By exclusion Jacob Gorsuch would appear to be of the line of Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch.

RICE HOOES I-V.

By JOHN BAILEY CALVERT NICKLIN

An attempt to identify five generations of Rice Hooes may be a reckless undertaking but I offer herewith my reconstruction of the first five generations of this F. F. V., gathered from data here and there. The outline (which I will try to expand considerably) is as follows:

- Rice Hooe I (1599-1655).
- Rice Hooe II (c1640-c1694).
- Rice Hooe III. (c1660-1726).
- Rice Hooe IV. (c1702-1748).
- Rice Hooe V. (1724-5-1757).

To take these gentlemen in detail let us begin with the first who was born in or about 1599. He came to Virginia first in 1618 and again in 1635. (Hotton, p. 206: Rice Howe in the "Giftie"). Jan. 25, 1624-5 Rice Howe (sic) of Charles City County, aged 26, appears in Hotton (p. 206). He is given in the Muster of Christopher Woodward of West & Sherley Hundred, with John Higgins, by the said Woodward of Charles City Co., as his "ptn's" (partners?) (Ibid). Feb. 1, 1632-3 Rice Hooe was Burgess for Shirley Hundred Island (Hening, I-202). On June 23, 1635 Rycce (sic) Hooe, aged 36, was to be transported to Virginia in the "America" William Barker, Master. "Per certificate from the Minister of the Town of Gravesend of conformity to the orders & discipline of the Church of England." (Hotton, pps. 95-96). Feb. 10, 1635-6, Rice Hoe's dwelling house was mentioned in the metes and bounds of a grant of land to Richard Tisdall of Charles City Co. (V. L. O. Bk. 1. pt. 2, p. 697). On May 2, 1636 as Rice Howe he was granted 1200 acres in that county, of which 100 acres were for the transportation of himself and wife and 1100 for the transportation of 22 persons. (Ibid. Bk. 1, pt. 1, p. 338). On June 5, 1637 he received an order of the Court for 700 acres of land in James City Co. (Ibid. p. 549). On May 9, 1638 Rice Hoe (sic) was granted 700 acres in James City Co., for the transportation of 14 persons. This patent was renewed Oct. 11, 1643. (Ibid. p. 549). On June 4, 1639 he was granted 300 acres in James City Co., for the transportation of 6 persons. (Ibid.

Gloucester names. Secretary Thomas Ludwell was from Bruton, in Somerset, as was Captain Pawlett, member of House of Burgesses, 1619; Throgmorton is a family name in Warwick, as is probably Randolph; Bathurst and Wyatt are Gloucester names; Carter, a family in Hampshire and Isle of Wight; Archer, a very ancient family in Devon and Cornwall; Pryor, in Herts; Browne, in Hereford and Lancaster; Farrer, in West Riding of Yorkshire; Woodward (Eliz. Cocke married Lawrence Woodward, a descendant of Christopher Woodward, Burgess of James City county, 1629) is a family in Worcestershire; Dennis (Richard Dennis was sheriff of Charles City county in 1714) is an Irish family; so were the Battes. Peter Jones must have been Welsh, as he had a son or grandson named Cadwallader.

All these families lived near to the Gloucestershire port of Bristol, and almost within view of the summits of Malvern Hills.*

The head of the Cocks family in England, in 1860, was CHARLES SOMERS SOMERS-COCKS, of Eastnor Castle, near Ledbury, Herefordshire, his magnificent seat, being situated at the base of the Malvern Hills, about midway between the cities of Gloucester and Worcester. The heir-presumptive to the Barony of Somers was his cousin, the REV. CHARLES RICHARD SOMERS-COCKS, magistrate for Herefordshire.

THOMAS SOMERS COCKS, Esquire, of Thames Bank, near Great Marlow, Bucks, represented a younger branch of the family, and married Agneta, daughter of Right Hon. Reginald Pole Carew, of Antony, Cornwall.

REGINALD THISBLETHWAYTHE COCKS was a brother of above.

Lieutenant-Colonel CHARLES LYGON COCKS†, of Treverlyn-Vean, Cornwall, was a third brother.

RICHARD SNEAD COX, Esquire, of Broxwood Court, magistrate and Dep. Lieutenant for County Hereford (High Sheriff 1858), was doubtless of same stock.

SIR WILLIAM COX, K. T. S., Ireland, was a lineal descendant of Dr. Richard Cox, one of the compilers of the Liturgy, and tutor to Edward VI.

ARTHUR ZACHARY COX, Esquire, of Harwood Hall, Essex, is another of this name.

EDWARD TOWNSEND COX, Esquire, of Balsall Heath, Worcestershire, belongs to a family which came over with William the Conquerer.

* "In 1685 William Slaughter," says the William and Mary College Quarterly, "was sheriff of Essex county. In Burk, 'Slaughter of Cos Gloucester, Hereford, and Worcester.'" January, '94, p. 157. Can it be that this district bore for a brief period this name—as for a brief period it did that of "Rappahannock"? Were the settlers on the Rappahannock also from 'Gloucester, Hereford, and Worcester'?

† "In Henrico the Cocks, the Lygons, and the Beauchamps were near neighbors. In England the Cocks family had intermarried with the Lygons, and the Lygons had intermarried with the Beauchamps—all three families living in Worcestershire and Herefordshire. Earl Beauchamp's name (1860) was Henry Beauchamp Lygon (of Madresfield Court, Worcester).

On Aug. 11, 1715 (Mis. Rec. & Depo., Richmond Co., p. 84), he and his wife Mary, entered into an agreement with William Woodward, of that County, whereby Woodward's son Thomas was bound out to Nicholas and Mary Muse, "or the longest liver of them". On Sept. 7, 1715, Nicholas Muse moved that this Indenture be recorded (O. B. 6, p. 334). In 1717 (Westmoreland Co. Orders, 1705-1727, p. 378), Daniel Higdon and Mary his wife, Admrs. of Nicholas Mewes decd., sued John Gammon and Frances, his wife, Admrs. of Brooks Abbingdon, decd., from whom Nicholas Muse, in 1708, had purchased land, and in 1715, sold it back to him. This proves that Mary (Elliott) Muse had married Daniel Higdon by 1717. She was probably his first wife, as he was not of age in 1702, according to the will of James Campbell in that year, when he bequeathed to Daniel and his two brothers "one heifer each, when 20 years of age". By Daniel Higdon, Mary Elliott-Muse had two daughters, Mary and Jane Higdon, who, unfortunately, are untraced. Mary died about 1737. Soon after, Daniel Higdon m. Margaret, wid. of Nathaniel Pope, whose estate she administered in that year. In Daniel Higdon's will of 1739, he leaves all his lands to his two daus., Mary and Jane Higdon, whose mother was Mary (Elliott-Muse) Higdon, and names Mary's only child by Nicholas Muse, Sr., John Muse, as his son-in-law (step-son).

John⁴ Muse, the only one of Mary's children traced, married twice, his first wife unknown, but she was the mother of his children, who were, according to his will bearing date 5 Jan. 1772; pro. 29 Dec. 1772 (D. & W., v. 15, p. 236), 1. Nicholas Muse, m. 1st, Margaret ———, mother of all his children; 2nd, Mrs. Ann Thompson, wid. He d. bet. 1799-1804; 2. James Muse, d. unm. 1812; 3. Mary, d. unm. bet. 1790-1792; 4. Thomas Muuse, m. Frances ———, d. 1810. His wid. m. 1812, Thomas Newton Berryman; 5. John Muse.

John⁴ Muse m. 2nd, Mrs. Jane (Brown) Price, wid. of William Price, who died 1756. There were no children by this marriage. At the time of his death in 1772, they were separated.

UNCONNECTED FOXALLS

D. B. 7, Richmond County, p. 116, April 4, 1716. Thomas Foxhall & Elizabeth his wife, for 4000 lbs. tobacco, conveys to Wm. Thornton & Wm. Woodford, a tract of land in Y^e Parish of Hanover in y^e County near y^e falls of Rapp^a River Adjoining to y^e lands pf M^r W^m Todd formerly Martha Vickers, Robert Carter Esqr & Richard Chichester Esqr containing 333 acres. (etc.) his wife rec'd this land from her father, James Innis.

HENRY FOXHALL

From "Old Georgetown on the Potomac", by Henry Ridgely Evans: "The Foxhall house at 3132 Dumbarton Avenue, was built by Henry

Luke, who was the father of Obadiah* Smith³ (lieutenant in the Revolution, and a man of considerable property), whose daughter, Lucy Smith, married James Powell Cocke⁶ in 1777.

3. ELIZABETH COCKE,³ born c. 1692; married Lawrence Woodward. Their maternal uncle, John Flower, lived in James City county. In 1629 Christopher Woodward was a Burgess for Westover, and there was a Captain Henry Woodward in the French and Indian Wars, 1755-57.

The Rev. James Bacon, Eng., first cousin of the great Lord Bacon, married Martha Woodward, and had issue: Nathaniel Bacon, born 1620; died 1692; member Council in Virginia 1657; Burgess for York 1659; Acting Governor 1689. This was not the "Rebel."

V. CHILDREN OF RICHARD COCKE,² THE YOUNGER, of Old Man's Creek, Charles City county. This was just across the line from Henrico county, but, as already stated, the destruction of the Charles City Records has left us in the dark as to his descendants. We think he must have been the father of Anne Cocke,³ who married Robert Bolling,³ of Charles City, as no other member of the family, so far as is ascertained, had a daughter named Anne. Possibly James Cocke⁹ may have had a daughter Anne.

We have referred to Bolling Cocke, Acrill Cocke, Littlebury Cocke, &c., who lived in Charles City in the latter half of the eighteenth century.

VI. CHILDREN OF ELIZABETH COCKE.²

We know nothing of them.

Contemporary with this Third Generation were Captains Thomas and Christopher Cocke, of Princess Anne, William and Walter Cocke, of Surry, Secretary William Cocke, of Williamsburg, Pressley and Fleet Cox, of Westmoreland and Lancaster, and Maurice Cocke, of Middlesex.

CORRECTIONS.^{}—On page 405, April No., it was not the widow of Colonel Richard Cocke, but the widow of Colonel Walter Aston [mother of Mary Aston, Richard Cocke's second wife], who married Colonel Edward Hill.

On page 407, for 1776 read 1676.

On page 410, Elizabeth and Martha Cocke³ married, respectively, Miles Cary and Joseph Pleasants.

LAND PATENTED.—About 1705 William Cocke and others patent 6,000 acres of land. (See Land-Book 10, page 407.)

^{} * On page 411 (January number) we state that he was the son of Obadiah Smith.¹ We confounded him with his uncle, Obadiah Smith,² who died in 1765. There is a case reported in 3 Randolph's Reports involving some contest about the will of this Obadiah Smith.³

^{} For pages 405, 407, 410 & 411 see pp. 104, 106, 109 & 110, this volume.

"ITEM: I give unto my loving Wife to her Heirs for Ever two Hundred acres of Land Lying out at Shipley's Quarter."

"ITEM: All the rest of my Estate I leave unto my Loving Wife Sarah who I make, ordain, Constitute and appoint to be my whole and sole Exec^{or} of this my last will and testament. In witness whereof I have hereunto sett my Hand and Seal this 13th day of 8ber 1693."

That the testator was not without some anxiety about entrusting his daughters to their step-mother's care is shown by the following paragraph:

"ITEM: It is my desire that my children Mary and Elizabeth may remaine with my wife till they are of age or married, but if my wife be not able or willing to keep them, then I do desire that they may be both put to my mother, Mrs. Mary Clarke or to my brother Richard Cocke, Jr., there to remain till they are of age or married."

As a matter of fact the two girls went to live with their uncle Richard Cocke², Jr., continuing under his roof until each of them was married. The lad William Cocke³ doubtless remained with his father's widow. Apparently he died early in life, for he disappears from sight entirely and his sisters inherited his estate as provided in their father's will.

Mary Cocke³ who died in 1754 married Obadiah Smith (VaMH&B, IV, 95) Her younger sister Elizabeth Cocke³ married "Lanse-lott" (Launcelot) Woodward in 1708 (VaMH&B, IV, 96; Wm&MCQ, 2nd ser., XIV, 179).

Little is known of John Cocke² and his descendants. He was born probably before 1660, possibly in 1658 (certainly not in 1647, as stated in VaMH&B, III, 411).* **

* The name John Cocke or John Cocks occurs in Virginia as early as 1619-20 (Brown's First Republic in America, p. 629). A certain John Cocke who was apparently a merchant in Bristol, England, was a contemporary of Richard Cocke¹ of Brems, as we know by the will of Richard Fielding of Northumberland County, Va., dated 16 July 1666 (Wm&MCQ, IX, 265).

Unfortunately John Cocke² has been confused with John Cox, Sr. (VaMH&B, III, 288), whose second wife was Mary Kennon (VaMH&B, XXXVII, 157-159) This John Cox (and not John Cocke², as stated in VaMH&B, III, 411 and elsewhere) was the progenitor of the Cox's of Chesterfield County who were not originally related to the Cokes of Henrico County, although the two families intermarried. (Concerning these Cox's and some of their connections with the Cokes of Henrico, see several paragraphs at the end of this paper.)

William Cox, grandson of John Cox, Sr., has likewise been confused with William Cocke³, son of John Cocke² (VaMH&B, IV, 94) The wife of William Cox was named Sarah but she was not Sarah Perrin.

Dear Coll. Washington;—

The parental feeling I have at parting with a dutiful Son I hope will be some apologie for my troubling you with this Epistle, his great inclination to go into the Army and the friends he has got & the favours he has received made it quite agreeable to his going. But I am afraid as he's young and knowing little of the world or mankind that he'd be more lyable to Errors. This is the exact data as given in the Visitation—that is, it being furnished the Herald visiting Hertfordshire in 1634, by Henry Farrar as his pedigree for himself and his family, he did not bother to give the data for his three brothers, beyond their names and recording them as children of his father, as was customary in such Visitations unless the various branches lived within the same district “visited”. The will of John Farrar in the following Appendix leaves no room for doubt that William Farrar of Farrar’s Island, Henrico County, Virginia, was the William of this line.

The Choctaw County Bicentennial Book

"William Woodward, as a member of the Legislature from Sumter County, promoted the formation of Choctaw. He was a resident of that section which became the new county and was the first Senator from the county. Edward McCall was the first member of the House of Representatives sent from the county. Mr. Woodward was born in York district, S. C., November 15, 1792. He served in the Legislature for three years, from Chester District to which he removed in 1820. He resided eleven years in Georgia, and came to Greene County, Alabama, in 1834. He moved to Sumter in 1838 and from 1841 to 1848 was a member of the House from that county. This "plain blunt man" was a Baptist minister and by his practical sense and integrity "won the esteem of his fellow man." After defeating Micajah McGee of Sumter for the State Senate in 1857, he served for four years and retired from politics in 1861. Mr. Woodward spent the evening of his life on his plantation in northern Choctaw and his sun "set" in September, 1871.

"Thomas McCarrell Prince, a wealthy planter, was the only man who ever defeated Mr. Woodward for office. He beat him in the contest for the Senate in 1855. Mr. Prince was born in North Carolina and graduated from the University of that state in 1827."

(c) Descendants of Nathaniel West

Until recently it was only known that Nathaniel West married a lady whose first name was Martha. The publication of a note from the King William Co. records in the Virginia Magazine shows that her family name was Woodward. The note shows that Gideon Macon, of New Kent, and Capt. Thomas Spencer, in right of their wives, Martha and Anne, daughters and heirs of William Woodward, deceased, were seized of certain property. Gideon Macon was dead, and the widow was married to Capt. Nathaniel West. Division of Estate. Survey by James Minge. (Va Magazine XXXI, p. 343.) Nathaniel West and his wife Martha Woodward had one daughter Unity, who married William Dandridge and made her will about 1753. (Hening, Stats. at Large, VI, p. 428). They had issue (1) Capt. Nathaniel West Dandridge, of the Royal Navy, who married Dorothea, daughter of Governor Alexander Spotswood (2) William, who married his cousin Agnes West, daughter of Col. Francis West, (3) Elizabeth married Philip Whitehead Claiborne (4) Anne married Mr. Dancy (5) Martha married Philip Aylett and (6) Mary married John Spotswood, son of Governor Spotswood (William and Mary Quarterly, V., p. 140.)

HON. THOMAS W. WOODWARD.

The Woodward family is one of the oldest American connections. It has furnished men of patriotic sentiments, many of whom have been distinguished for great gallantry on their country's battlefields, since its settlement in the new world many generations ago. The Hon. Thomas W. Woodward, the immediate subject of this biographical mention, is the great-grandson of Thomas Woodward, a Virginian, whose father was also named Thomas. The latter was born near Annapolis, Md., his ancestors having come to this country from England with George Calvert Baron, of Baltimore, and settled in Maryland, A. D. 1634. The name, Woodward, is derived from the occupation of those who were wood wards — one who protects a forest, and indicates that the family is of gentle origin, and originated in the time of William of Normandy, 1066. Thomas the elder, was married twice. After the death of his first wife, who bore him several children, he removed to Fairfax county, Va., and there married Elizabeth Simpson, a lady of Scotch parentage. Their one son was Thomas, "The Regulator." He distinguished himself in the French and Indian wars. His marriage resulted in the birth of four daughters and two sons, the names of the latter being John and William. Both served in the Revolution as patriotic soldiers. Some time after the independence of the states had been established William was elected to congress, and in after years became a Baptist clergyman, and died at Chester, S. C. John died at an advanced age in Fairfield county, S. C. Thomas, the father of the Regulator, came to Fairfield county, S. C., several years prior to the Revolution, and at the outbreak of that struggle raised one of the first companies to serve in the Colonial army. He was killed on Dutchman's creek, in Fairfield county, S. C., in a fight with the British and Tories, May 12, 1779. He was noted for his dauntless courage, as have been, indeed, all his family, and was a man of rugged honesty and gentlemanly instincts. He married for his second wife the widow May, a lady of Indian blood, and seven children were born to them. John Woodward was a captain in the Revolution. He married Jemima Collins, and became the father of three sons and three daughters. John spent the rest of his days in Fairfield county as a planter. One of his sons was William T. Woodward, the father of our subject. He was graduated from the South Carolina college, and followed in his father's footsteps as a planter. For several terms he served in the state legislature with efficiency. Harriet Smart, a lady of rare accomplishments, a native of South Carolina, became his wife, and bore him three children, two daughters and one son. The Hon. Thomas W. Woodward, the son above mentioned, was born on the plantation in Fairfield county, S. C., which has been in his family since a portion of it was granted to Thomas the Regulator by King George III. His birth occurred May 7, 1833. He was given every educational advantage, having first attended the Mount Zion college, later Shirley's institute, and then Wake Forest college, of North Carolina, where he spent a few months in 1847. In the fall of 1848 he entered the South Carolina college. His collegiate career was cut short in his junior year by his participation in the famous "Steward Hall rebellion," when he was expelled with 107 others. His mother died in his childhood, and he was but a lad when his father's death left him an orphan under the care of his uncle, Mr. Osmund Woodward, his father's executor. February 15, 1855, Mr. Woodward very happily married Miss Cornelia M. Dantzler, of Orangeburg, S. C., and at that time settled on his plantation, and turned his attention to the calling of his fathers. Mrs. Woodward died in 1878. Miss Rebecca V. Lyles, daughter of Capt. Thomas M. Lyles, a grandson of the first white settler in Fairfield county, became his second wife. In 1860-1 Fairfield county elected Mr. Woodward its representative in the legislature, and he was a member of the session which called the convention of secession, and his vote was cast for that measure. He volunteered as a private in the Fairfield Fencibles, at the outbreak of the Civil war, and upon the organization of the Sixth South Carolina volunteer regiment he was elected major. He was seriously wounded at the battle of Dranesville. Subsequently he re-enlisted as a private, and was tendered the office of quartermaster of the Twentieth volunteer regiment. Acting in that capacity Mr. Woodward served during the remaining years of the war. His regiment was attached to Kershaw's brigade when they went into Virginia, and Major Woodward surrendered with Johnston at Greensboro. Returning to his home after the last struggle of the Confederacy, he resumed his occupation as a planter, and has since continued with increasing success. As acting chairman of the Fairfield county democratic committee in 1876, Mr. Woodward rendered distinguished aid to the cause of white supremacy and purity in politics in the state. He has always been a staunch and loyal supporter of the democratic party, and has antagonized every movement that, in his opinion, would detract from the success of democracy. In 1890 he took a bold stand against the farmers' alliance movement, as conducted, and voted and worked against the election of Gov. Tillman. Major Woodward was elected senator to represent his county in 1884, and was re-elected in 1888, both elections having been without opposition.

Excerpts from MEMORIAL RECORD OF ALABAMA. PERSONAL
MEMOIRS - TALLADEGA COUNTY □ PAGES 994 and 995

J. B. WOODWARD, a leading merchant of Talladega, was born December 7, 1846. He is the eldest son of J. A. and Minerva (Rice) Woodward. The former, Hon. Joseph A. Woodward, was a native of Fairfield district, S. C., and was born April 11, 1806. He was the son of Hon. William Woodward who, while he was a practicing physician and a minister of the gospel, was at the same time a prominent politician, and served in congress several terms. The father of Hon. William Woodward, Thomas Woodward, was known in the history of South Carolina as the "Regulator." Hon. Joseph A. Woodward had several brothers of distinction, two of whom came to Alabama, Thomas B. and Rev. William Woodward. The latter resided for several years in Sumter county, Ala. where he was pastor of Baptist churches, and frequently represented that county in the lower house of the legislature. The father of J. B. Woodward came to Alabama in 1860, and settled in Talladega county, where he remained until his death. He was a graduate of the state university of South Carolina at Columbia, then under the presidency of Dr. Cooper, and was entirely familiar with the Latin classics, and took great delight in Greek literature. He was a lawyer by profession, and while in South Carolina led a very distinguished career as a lawyer, successfully arguing several very important cases before the courts in Washington, D. C. He served several terms in the legislature of South Carolina, and in 1848 was elected to congress from the Winnsboro district, and was returned to his seat in the halls of congress for five consecutive terms, giving entire satisfaction to his constituency, and finally retiring because he did not desire longer to serve. He was a statesman of the broadest views. He was a friend and lifelong admirer of Hon. John C. Calhoun, and though he differed widely in his views of public policy from Hon. Horace Greeley, yet he was a friend of Mr. Greeley and kept up a correspondence with him until that gentleman's death in 1872. Mr. Woodward was well informed upon all subjects of general interest, and his life was one of constant and unswerving integrity throughout. On his death-bed he expressed himself as having no fear. Some of his last utterances were: "I am ready to die;" "God has provided a place for me;" "I am not dying by accident or mere chance, it is God that is killing me, and it is right;" "I am done with this world and am ready for the next;" "I shall soon be in the region of great festivities." J. B. Woodward received a good common school education, but the war coming on cut his education short. In 1862, when but sixteen years of age, he offered his services to the southern cause, enlisting in the first company of Washington artillery of New Orleans, under Capt. Charles Squires, and serving until the surrender of Lee. He was with his battallon in all its battles after joining, except the one at Drewry's bluff. After the war he returned to Talladega, and at first accepted a position in a store as clerk, in which position he remained several years. He then formed a co-partnership with I. B. Merriam of New York, doing a general merchandise business in the town of Talladega, after which he formed a partnership with his father-in-law, J. P. Wood, under the firm name of J. P. Wood & Co., which name has never been changed to this time. He has served as alderman of Talladega several years, and is a member of the Knights of Honor. In 1877 he married, and by this marriage has two children, Rice, a son, and Pinckney C., a daughter. Mr. Woodward and his wife are members of

The assessed value of property is $1,104,975, viz: real estate $821,732; personally $283,243.
The following shows the decennial movement of population:

Whites.....	1850	1860	1870
Blacks.....	4220	6767	6899
	3769	7110	6872

The lands are rolling and flat. The ridges and pine lands are sandy, but the river and creek "bottoms" are alluvial. The pine forests are extensive, and will be made a source of wealth. Grazing for cattle is excellent in the outlying lands. The farm lands are valued at $946,850, and embrace 79,502 acres improved, and 220,329 acres unimproved.

The value of live stock in 1870 was $409,400, and consisted of 1313 horses, 941 mules, 10,256 neat cattle, 2940 sheep, and 14,082 hogs.

The productions in 1869 were 227,715 bushels of corn, 51,759 bushels of potatoes, 29,146 pounds of butter, 6439 bales of cotton, 3355 pounds of wool; the value of animals slaughtered was $67,823; and the value of farm productions was $908,562.

The Tombikbee river is the eastern boundary line, and is open to steam navigation the entire year. There are mineral waters in the county, and Bladon Springs have attained to a wide celebrity.

BUTLER, the seat of justice, has about 200 inhabitants. It was named to honor Col. Pierce M. Butler of South Carolina, killed at the battle of Cherubusco, in 1847. Bladon Springs has about 350, and Mount Stirling about 300 inhabitants.

WILLIAM WOODWARD resided in this county. He was born in York district, South Carolina, November 15, 1792, of a family well known in that State. His parents were poor, and his education was plain. He became a planter, and removed to Chester district in 1820. After serving three years in the legislature he removed to Georgia, and in 1834 came to this State. He settled in Greene county, but four years later removed to that portion of Sumter now embraced in Chocta. In 1841 he represented Sumter in the house, where he continued for 7 years. He was an advocate of the formation of Chocta, and in 1853 was elected to the State senate from Sumter, Washington, and Chocta, defeating Hon. Deveaux Hopkins. Two years later he was beaten, but in 1857 was elected over Mr. Micajah McGee of Sumter. He retired from public life in 1861, and resided on his plantation till his death in (September 1871). About 1840 he was ordained a elder in the Baptist church, and for 18 years was pastor of a congre-

CHAPTER XXII

THE COUNTY OF CHOCTA.

Chocta was established by an act of the legislature, approved December 29, 1847, and two tiers of its townships were taken from Sumter and five from Washington.

It is in the western portion of the State, and bounded north by Sumter, south by Washington, east by Marengo and Clarke, and west by the State of Mississippi.

The name preserves the remembrance of the most docile and numerous of all the aboriginal tribes of the United States, who possessed the soil now embraced within its limits from a time "whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary."

Its area is something over 900 square miles.

Gloucester names. Secretary Thomas Ludwell was from Bruton, in Somerset, as was Captain Pawlett, member of House of Burgesses, 1619; Throgmorton is a family name in Warw'ck, as is probably Randolph; Bathurst and Wyatt are Gloucester names; Carter, a family in Hampshire and Isle of Wight; Archer, a very ancient family in Devon and Cornwall; Pryor, in Herts; Browne, in Hereford and Lancaster; Farrer, in West Riding of Yorkshire; Woodward (Eliz. Cocke married Lawrence Woodward, a descendant of Christopher Woodward, Burgess of James City county, 1629) is a family in Worcestershire; Dennis (Richard Dennis was sheriff of Charles City county in 1714) is an Irish family; so were the Battes. Peter Jones must have been Welsh, as he had a son or grandson named Cadwallader.

All these families lived near to the Gloucestershire port of Bristol, and almost within view of the summits of Malvern Hills.*

The head of the Cocks family in England, in 1860, was CHARLES SOMERS SOMERS-COCKS, of Eastnor Castle, near Ledbury, Herefordshire, his magnificent seat, being situated at the base of the Malvern Hills, about midway between the cities of Gloucester and Worcester. The heir-presumptive to the Barony of Somers was his cousin, the REV. CHARLES RICHARD SOMERS-COCKS, magistrate for Herefordshire.

THOMAS SOMERS COCKS, Esquire, of Thames Bank, near Great Marlow, Bucks, represented a younger branch of the family, and married Agneta, daughter of Right Hon. Reginald Pole Carew, of Antony, Cornwall.

REGINALD THISBLETHWAYTHE COCKS was a brother of above.

Lieutenant-Colonel CHARLES LYGON COCKS†, of Treverlyn-Vean, Cornwall, was a third brother.

RICHARD SNEAD COX, Esquire, of Broxwood Court, magistrate and Dep. Lieutenant for County Hereford (High Sheriff 1858), was doubtless of same stock.

SIR WILLIAM COX, K. T. S., Ireland, was a lineal descendant of Dr. Richard COX, one of the compilers of the Liturgy, and tutor to Edward VI.

ARTHUR ZACHARY COX, Esquire, of Harwood Hall, Essex, is another of this name.

EDWARD TOWNSEND COX, Esquire, of Balsall Heath, Worcestershire, belongs to a family which came over with William the Conquerer.

† In Henrico the Cocks, the Lygons, and the Beauchamps were near neighbors. In England the Cocks family had intermarried with the Lygons, and the Lygons had intermarried with the Beauchamps—all three families living in Worcestershire and Herefordshire. Earl Beauchamp's name (1860) was Henry Beauchamp Lygon (of Madresfield Court, Worcester).

For other data concerning Thomas Cocke², in addition to the references given above, see VaMH&B, III, 406-409; IV, 90, 213; VIII, 206-208; XXVIII, 15, 211; XXXII, 49; XLIII, 75-76, 85-86; Wm&MCQ, 2nd ser., IX, 56, 57; 2nd ser., XI, 230, 232; 2nd ser., XIII, 211. *

All that is known about Elizabeth Cocke² (born perhaps about 1653) is contained in her father's will. Whether she ever "attained the age of Seaventeen years" or "the day of her Marriage", whether her brother Richard Cocke², Sr., paid the "one hundred pounds Sterling" to her, or whether she died and the money was divided among the sons of Mary Aston Cocke, are questions that cannot be answered. It is supposed that she witnessed will of Elizabeth Eppes in 1678 (VaMH&B, III, 412). *

William Cocke² (1657-1693), who is described in his will as "William Cocke of the Lowground in Henrico co", was Mary Aston Cocke's oldest son. His plantation was close by the homes of several of his brothers on the north side (VaMH&B, III, 410)* of "Turkey Island Creek adjoining the mill of John Pleasants and [extending] to the Lines of Robert Povey, John Cocke, and Giles Carter and so along the said Creek Now in possession of John Ast [Aust?] and Henry Lester containing about 254 acres" (Indenture Deed dated 6 April 1705 between Obadiah Smith & his wife Mary Cocke³ and Launcelot Woodward & his wife Elizabeth Cocke³, Col. Rec. Henrico, 1700-1709, p. 127).

Perhaps about a year or two after William Cocke² came of age a deed, dated 29 July 1680, signed by him and acknowledged a few days later in Henrico County Court, absolves his "father-in-law" (= step-father) Daniel Clarke from all further indebtedness to him in consideration of his having received from Clarke 5,490 lbs. tobacco "which is my full due from him of what was due to me by my father Lt. Coll. Richard Cocke of Brems"; and accordingly I do "hereby acquitt and discharge the said Clarke of all debts dues or demands w^{ts}soever from the beginning of the world to this day accruing by that estate, as witness my hand," etc.

Another paper dated 20 February 1681/2 relates that one day when William Cocke² was of "age 24 years or thereabouts" his brother Thomas Cocke² "sent his sonne Stephen Cocke down to my house" to fetch him to Malvern Hills; and that on his arrival at his brother's home the latter asked him to go with him to "the old tobacco house" for the purpose of inspecting a hogshead of tobacco which had been delivered to Thomas Cocke² by a certain John Watson and in which the tobacco was mixed in with layers "of ground leaves and trash tobacco" such as was "not fit to be put into a hhd." While this incident is not of much interest in itself, it has a human touch which lends it a little importance and we seem to share Thomas Cocke's anger at finding he had been cheated by John Watson.

William Cocke² had three children, namely, two daughters Mary Cocke³

"ITEM: I give unto my loving Wife to her Heirs for Ever two Hundred acres of Land Lying out at Shipley's Quarter."

"ITEM: All the rest of my Estate I leave unto my Loving Wife Sarah who I make, ordain, Constitute and appoint to be my whole and sole Exec^{or} of this my last will and testament. In witness whereof I have hereunto sett my Hand and Seal this 13th day of 8ber 1693."

That the testator was not without some anxiety about entrusting his daughters to their step-mother's care is shown by the following paragraph:

"ITEM: It is my desire that my children Mary and Elizabeth may remaine with my wife till they are of age or married, but if my wife be not able or willing to keep them, then I do desire that they may be both put to my mother, Mrs. Mary Clarke or to my brother Richard Cocke, Jr., there to remain till they are of age or married."

As a matter of fact the two girls went to live with their uncle Richard Cocke², Jr., continuing under his roof until each of them was married. The lad William Cocke³ doubtless remained with his father's widow. Apparently he died early in life, for he disappears from sight entirely and his sisters inherited his estate as provided in their father's will.

Mary Cocke³ who died in 1754 married Obadiah Smith (VaMH&B, IV, 95) Her younger sister Elizabeth Cocke³ married "Lanse-lott" (Launcelot) Woodward in 1708 (VaMH&B, IV, 96; Wm&MCQ, 2nd ser., XIV, 179).

Little is known of John Cocke² and his descendants. He was born probably before 1660, possibly in 1658 (certainly not in 1647, as stated in VaMH&B, III, 411).* **

* The name John Cocke or John Cocks occurs in Virginia as early as 1619-20 (Brown's First Republic in America, p. 629). A certain John Cocke who was apparently a merchant in Bristol, England, was a contemporary of Richard Cocke¹ of Brems, as we know by the will of Richard Fielding of Northumberland County, Va., dated 16 July 1666 (Wm&MCQ, IX, 265).

Unfortunately John Cocke² has been confused with John Cox, Sr. (VaMH&B, III, 288), whose second wife was Mary Kennon (VaMH&B, XXXVII, 157-159) This John Cox (and not John Cocke², as stated in VaMH&B, III, 411 and elsewhere) was the progenitor of the Cox's of Chesterfield County who were not originally related to the Cokes of Henrico County, although the two families intermarried. (Concerning these Cox's and some of their connections with the Cokes of Henrico, see several paragraphs at the end of this paper.)

William Cox, grandson of John Cox, Sr., has likewise been confused with William Cocke³, son of John Cocke² (VaMH&B, IV, 94) The wife of William Cox was named Sarah but she was not Sarah Perrin.

HENRY FARRER, of Great Amwell co Hertford, eldest son, now living, 1634; m. Martha daughter of Sir John Woodward. Issue :

John; Henry; Catherine; SISSELY

This is the exact data as given in the Visitation—that is, it being furnished the Herald visiting Hertfordshire in 1634, by Henry Farrar as his pedigree for himself and his family, he did not bother to give the data for his three brothers, beyond their names and recording them as children of his father, as was customary in such Visitations unless the various branches lived within the same district “visited”. The will of John Farrar in the following Appendix leaves no room for doubt that William Farrar of Farrar’s Island, Henrico County, Virginia, was the William of this line.

APPENDIX II.

1. Mary Peyton Bolling Stith, born Sept. 14, 1808, Bellair; m. William Strechley.
2. Eliza Stith, born Jan. 6, 1810, Bellair; married William Knox Gordon, of Kenmore. They lie buried in Kenmore next to Mary, mother of Washington. Their inscription reads as follows: In Memory of W. K. Gordon, Dec. 14, 1799, died May 16, 1886. "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God". In Memory of Eliza S. wife of Wm. K. Gordon born Jan. 6, 1810, died July 24, 1872. "He that believeth in me tho he were dead yet shall he live".
3. Caroline Matilda, born Dec. 25, 1811, Bellair; m. William Thompson.
4. Harriet Washington, born Mar. 14, 1814, Bellair; m. John T. Daniel, second cousin of Hon. Peter Vivian Daniel; m. (2) Oliver Yowell (see Daniel notes).
5. Ann Frances Tabb, born Dec. 19, 1815, Bellair; m. ——— McGuire, died in Florida.
6. George Henry Bolling, born Feb. 17, 1818, died unmarried. He is buried next to his mother (see above). His inscription reads ("In memory of G. H. B. Fitzhugh, only son of J. B. S. & Frances Fitzhugh of Bellair, Stafford Co. died Mar. 26, 1874, in the 56th year of his age." (Note he was named from his two Fitzhugh grandfathers.)

In Va. Magazine, Vol. VIII, p. 432,* the marriages also of the above are slightly mixed. Also note Mrs. Ernest Robert Graham mother's name was Pocahontas and John Bolling Stith Fitzhugh had the name of a Pocahontas ancestor, however, a search through the Stith allied family failed to show descent from Pocahontas. John Bolling Stith Fitzhugh's mother named her son from her stepmother's first husband, first wife's father, i. e., Elizabeth Stith, daughter of Col. Drury Stith, stepmother was Elizabeth (Jones) Eldridge, second wife of Thomas Eldridge, whose first wife was Martha Bolling, daughter of John.

(Compiled by Mrs. William Wallace McPherson, Genealogist, 6726 Honore St., Chicago, Ill., for a book of ancestry for Mrs. Ernest Robert Graham, of Chicago.)

I desire to make a correction in my Fitzhugh article of January, 1934, p. 68. *

A member of the family stated that Mary Bolling Fitzhugh married William Sthreshley, and it so appears in the William and Mary Quarterly, p. 96.

Mr. Stewart M. Woodward, of Richmond, Va., has written me that she married James Madison Sthreshley, son of Capt. William Sthreshley and Elizabeth Buckner (nee Elizabeth Madison, daughter of James Madison, Sr.).

Gladys R. (Mrs. W. W.) McPherson.

*For pages 432 & 68 see pp. 861 & 895, this volume.

On Aug. 11, 1715 (Mis. Rec. & Depo., Richmond Co., p. 84), he and his wife Mary, entered into an agreement with William Woodward, of that County, whereby Woodward's son Thomas was bound out to Nicholas and Mary Muse, "or the longest liver of them". On Sept. 7, 1715, Nicholas Muse moved that this Indenture be recorded (O. B. 6, p. 334). In 1717 (Westmoreland Co. Orders, 1705-1727, p. 378), Daniel Higdon and Mary his wife, Admrs. of Nicholas Mewes decd., sued John Gammon and Frances, his wife, Admrs. of Brooks Abbington, decd., from whom Nicholas Muse, in 1708, had purchased land, and in 1715, sold it back to him. This proves that Mary (Elliott) Muse had married Daniel Higdon by 1717. She was probably his first wife, as he was not of age in 1702, according to the will of James Campbell in that year, when he bequeathed to Daniel and his two brothers "one heifer each, when 20 years of age". By Daniel Higdon, Mary Elliott-Muse had two daughters, Mary and Jane Higdon, who, unfortunately, are untraced. Mary died about 1737. Soon after, Daniel Higdon m. Margaret, wid. of Nathaniel Pope, whose estate she administered in that year. In Daniel Higdon's will of 1739, he leaves all his lands to his two daus., Mary and Jane Higdon, whose mother was Mary (Elliott-Muse) Higdon, and names Mary's only childd by Nicholas Muse, Sr., John Muse, as his son-in-law (step-son).

John⁴ Muse, the only one of Mary's children traced, married twice, his first wife unknown, but she was the mother of his children, who were, according to his will bearing date 5 Jan. 1772; pro. 29 Dec. 1772 (D. & W., v. 15, p. 236), 1. Nicholas Muse, m. 1st, Margaret ———, mother of all hs children; 2nd, Mrs. Ann Thompson, wid. He d. bet. 1799-1804; 2. James Muse, d. unm. 1812; 3. Mary, d. unm. bet. 1790-1792; 4. Thomas Muuse, m. Frances ———, d. 1810. His wid. m. 1812, Thomas Newton Berryman; 5. John Muse.

John⁴ Muse m. 2nd, Mrs. Jane (Brown) Price, wid. of William Price, who died 1756. There were no children by this marriage. At the time of his death in 1772, they were separated.

UNCONNECTED FOXALLS

D. B. 7, Richmond County, p. 116, April 4, 1716. Thomas Foxhall & Elizabeth his wife, for 4000 lbs. tobacco, conveys to Wm. Thornton & Wm. Woodford, a tract of land in Y^e Parish of Hanover in y^e County near y^e falls of Rapp^a River Adjoining to y^e lands pf M^r W^m Todd formerly Martha Vickers, Robert Carter Esqr & Richard Chichester Esqr containing 333 acres. (etc.) his wife rec'd this land from her father, James Innis.

HENRY FOXHALL

From "Old Georgetown on the Potomac", by Henry Ridgely Evans: "The Foxhall house at 3132 Dumbarton Avenue, was built by Henry

- 30th, 1793, Averilla Vaughan. He married 2nd, June 30th 1803, Ann McIntire. Left issue by both wives.
33. x Nicholas⁷ Gorsuch (Charles⁶, Charles⁵, Charles⁴). Born 1774. Died May 26th, 1839. Married 1st Nancy Glenn; married 2nd Agnes Glenn. Left no issue.
- xi Sarah⁷ Gorsuch (Charles⁶, Charles⁵, Charles⁴). Born about 1764. Married Abraham Hicks by license March 2nd, 1781. Living 1794 when she received £15 from her father's estate.
- xii Ruth⁷ Gorsuch (Charles⁶, Charles⁵, Charles⁴). Born about 1766. Married Charles Peregoy, by license June 15th, 1785. She had two daughters living 1849, viz: Ann married Elias Read, and Elizabeth married George Shipley (Balto. Deeds #411; 445).

12. Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch (Charles⁵, Charles⁴). He was the fourth son of Charles⁵ Gorsuch, and the second son by his second wife Sarah Cole. He was born October 17th, 1730. (St. Paul's Register). and was living as late as 1796. The name of his first wife is not known. He married secondly July 17th, 1760, Kerenhappuch Johnson (St. John's Register). She was probably the daughter of Jacob Johnson, who leased part of Clymalyra from Charles Carroll in 1766. The names of three sons, Charles, Nathan and Thomas, have been learned indirectly from deeds. It is quite probably that he had at least another son Jacob*, and that he also had daughters. There is a deed February 8th, 1762, from John Woodward of Baltimore County, and his wife Elizabeth, conveying for a nominal consideration, part of lot No. 39 in Baltimore Town to his nephew Nathan, with reversion to his nephew Charles, respectively the youngest and eldest sons of Benjamin Gorsuch; and the same day he conveys the remainder of the same lot to David⁶ Gorsuch [a brother of Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch] (Balto. Deeds B. No. 1, 490, 491). There is another deed, dated August 3rd, 1798, executed by Thomas Gorsuch of Benjamin for land bought in 1794 by the grantor (idem W. J. No. 56, 138). As a witness of the will of William Sinclair, February 13th, 1793, Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch made his mark. This Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch must be carefully distinguished from his nephew Benjamin⁷ Gorsuch (Charles⁶, Charles⁵, Charles⁴) who was not a marksman. Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch appears in the "Tax List of 1783" and in the "Census of 1790" as living in Mine Run Hundred, on "175 acres, part of Carroll's Manor", apparently in what is now the north eastern part of Baltimore County, which he may have inherited from his wife Kerenhappuch Johnson. His sons Charles and Nathan were certainly children of his first marriage. The maternity of Thomas is uncertain.

*Jacob Gorsuch, January 21st, 1796, married by license Elizabeth Hetherton. Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch and Jacob Gorsuch, February 13th, 1793, witnessed the will of William Sinclair, Jacob signing his name, and Benjamin making his mark. January 21st, 1910, Jacob Gorsuch, of Baltimore City, and his wife Elizabeth executed a deed (Balto. Deeds W. G. No. 109, 276). By exclusion Jacob Gorsuch would appear to be of the line of Benjamin⁶ Gorsuch.
