

Yarbrough

Yesterday-Today-Tomorrow

By

Maurice Yarbrough

Dedication

To my wife Beverley Grub Yarbrough, who was so patient as I worked at the computer, traveled to distant cemeteries, and searched for pictures. Again showing what has been recognized for a very long time, the ladies are the real strength of the Yarbrough clan.

Acknowledgments

This book would not have been possible without the help of the following people, institutions, and publications.

Lauderdale County archives and history department, Meridian MS, which supplied helpful information from Lauderdale County as well as Sumter County Al.

Newton Library, Newton, MS especially, Brenda Pierce, who was so helpful in research through The Newton Record.

The Book, Yarbrough a branch through ambrose the emigrant, by Robert Price Yarbrough.

Newton County Courthouse, Decatur, MS. The offices of Circuit Clerk and Chancery Clerk were helpful in obtaining records of the Yarbrough family.

The entire Yarbrough clan that still lives, as well as family friends who have provided pictures, family records and other information contributed greatly.

One special Yarbrough, who contributed so much to this effort must be recognized, Eighty Eight year old Elgy Yarbrough, of Meridian, MS. Elgy not only generously gave of his time, talking with the writer, but also spent much time gathering information which greatly enhanced this effort. Thank's Elgy.

Introduction

This information, has been compiled for use by those of us who still live and care about our family, from whence they came, and what they did. We will be a better people if we can gain a slight insight into the many problems and rewards they faced as they moved west.

It appears, to this writer, the moves West were not of necessity but of choice. Based on the long line of Ministers in our family, I have concluded, much of the move West came from a sincere desire to provide a place of worship, strong moral leadership and guidance, which was much needed as evidenced by Church records. Whether we agree with those guidelines, of the times, is not the question, they worked. There was no "law" as we know it today, in most of the regions settled by our forefathers. Someone or something was necessary to keep moral and Civil order. The Church was the tool used by those who lived before us.

It is the intent of this writer to make all aware of the fact, our family came from noble people in England, and before that from the Danish Vikings. No more noble people ever lived on this earth, than the Vikings. We are a good, proud and yes a serving people. As we read and study the information in this book, we can hold our head High and be proud of those who came before us.

Introduction

Part two
Copied from Yarbrough

The Yarbrough family is regarded as one of the oldest families in England, the name being derived from the parish of Yarburgh in Lincolnshire, and they have held lands continuously in the direct line from the Saxon times until the present day.

Eustachius de Yarburg was Lord of Yarburg at the time of the Norman Conquest, and from him descended the family. A branch of the family is found at an early time in Virginia.

The history of the Yarbrough (various spellings) family began in England during the Viking Age, and the Viking invasions of England. The Sybils Prophecy, ca. 1000 said, "A sword age' a wind age, a wolf age. No longer is there mercy among men." They were years of bloodshed, of discovery, of colonization; years of epic heroism, epic poetry, and epic tragedy; years when Danes, Swedes, and Norwegians surged out of their frozen vastness at the top of Europe in a giant pincers that encompassed the known world.. Born merchants as well as warriors, they traded as often as they raided, and with increasing frequency as age waned, they settled where they conquered.

The patriarch of the Yarbrough family, along with hundreds of his fellow Danes, settled in the now known as Lincolnshire and Yorkshire. Fabled Sherwood Forest lies along the border between the two shires. So many Danes settled in this conquered land that the area became known as Danelaw. Danish customs, law, and language prevailed in this area. Alfred the Great did succeed in driving most of the Northmen from his England, but never did expel the Danes from the Danelaw. Even today legacies of the ancient Danelaw linger in Lincolnshire and Yorkshire.

The Danish Vikings took from the Saxons of England, and they also gave; probably their most precious gift was their belief that a man be judged solely by his deeds, and degree of courage. Noble birth meant nothing to them; they held that the lowest could become the highest. This radical, unheard of reasoning finally germinated in the minds of Englishmen, and flowered on a field at Runnymede. History records that a fleet of Viking dragonships sailed up France's Eure River. The local Frankish nobleman sent an emissary to negotiate peace. As the messenger approached the lead ship, he shouted: "Who is your master?" "None", came the reply. "We are all equals, we are Danes."

In the beginning the name was Yarberg, then Yarburgh. Elsdon C. Smith's "American Surnames", pages 230-231 says: Other terminations are the 'burg' endings from Old Norse 'berg', often spelled 'brough', 'borough' usually meaning a fortified place, as in 'Yarbrough'.

M. A. Lower's "Patronymic", page 392 says: Yarbrough...A parish in Lincolnshire where the anciently resident. That Lower used the words "the family" confirms that all Yarbroughs (various spellings) are of the same vine Elsdon C. Smith's, "New Dictionary of American Surnames", says "Yarbrough...English. One who came from Yarbrough, or Yarburgh (earth fortification), the name of a place in Lincolnshire".

Patronymic Britannica, page 394 says: "Yarberg...an ancient spelling of Yarbrough".

The family chart prepared by F.S. Andrus of the College of Arms states that Eustacius de Yarburgh was a resident in Lincolnshire at the time of the Norman Conquest in the year 1066, and he was the patriarch of the Yarbrough family. Researchers have failed to identify the first Yarbrough who removed northward from Lincolnshire to Yorkshire, nor do they know the time. It is suspected that the migration was shortly after William the Conqueror defeated Harold Godwinson, Earl of Wessex, in the battle of Hastings. The men of the Danelaw rallied beneath William's banner, with sword and bow in hand, for he too was a scion of Danes, and they helped him greatly in the formation of his government, and keeping the peace. William was appreciative and rewarded them with lands and titles. It could be that the move to Yorkshire was during these years of reorganization.

The spelling "Yarburgh" continued unchanged in England for almost five hundred years. The first appearance of the spelling "Yarbrough" on the family chart was the entry concerning Sir Thomas Yarbrough, Snaith Hall, Yorkshire, Knight. Sir Thomas was born in the late 1500's. Two of Sir Thomas's sons adapted the spelling "Yarbrough" while other sons continued with the old spelling. Every man of the family did not appear on the chart, so probably there others who changed the spelling at an earlier date. The chart reveals that the majority of the English family have held fast to the spelling "Yarburgh". Here in America we Yarbroughs tend to believe that those who spell their name Yarburgh, Yarborough, Yarber, Yarboro, etc., are of a different vine - not true. Until the late 1800's people in America spelled surnames two or more ways within the same document, or discover that a man spelled his name different on different occasions. The variety of spellings was not limited to surnames. For example, the word city might be spelled citty, citee, citye, or even citty. This compiler has seen at least twenty-three variations in the spelling of Yarbrough.

Enclosed is a true copy of the coat of arms of the Yarbroughs of Yorkshire. This heraldic symbol was extensively researched by the writer, by Mr. T.F. Thomas of Heraldic Studios, and by F.S. Andrus, Esquire, Herald of Lancaster, College of Arms, London, England. This picture is authentic in every detail, and is indeed the proud coat of arms of all Yarbroughs of the Yorkshire clan. An explanation of the coat of arms colors and symbols is enclosed.

Out of the middle ages and down through the centuries came the proud custom, and the romantic tradition of the ancestral coat of arms. Devised in the remote days of chivalry, born by armed knights on ancient battlefields, cherished by forebearers of ages past, and handed down from generation to generation as a sacred emblem of family honor.

The origin of heraldry is lost, faded into the misty dawn of history. The first known use of heraldic devices was used by the sea roving Vikings who emblazoned their shields with crudely devised insignia. It was centuries later before warriors of other lands adapted the custom. There is no record of the use of such bearings during the First Crusade, and they were extremely rare in the Second Crusade. But in 1187 a number of the shields borne in the Third Crusade were emblazoned; and the great seal of Richard the Lionhearted in the same year shows his shield charged with a lion rampant. Eustacius de Yarburg was an old man when England's young warriors joined the First Crusade, he was long dead by the Second Crusade. From Eustacius we Yarbroughs have inherited a noble heritage, a proud name, and an ancient coat of arms.

"Think not that the Nobilitie of thy Ancestors doth free thee to doe all that thou list, contrewise, it bindeth the more to followe vertue".
Pierre Erondell

Yarbrough

It is interesting that the College of Arms list three coats of arms for Yarbroughs (Yarborough) two in Lincolnshire, and one in Yorkshire, and all are almost identical. One Lincolnshire crest is a falcon preying on a Pheasant, the other the same with a crescent; the Yorkshire crest is a falcon preying on a duck. Only kinsmen would have symbols so near alike. The Yarbroughs of England were a close knit clan, and the comradeship continued even into America.

Most researchers agree that all Yarbroughs (various spellings) in America are descendants of Richard Yarbrough who came to the Virginia Colony from Lincolnshire ca. 1642 or Ambrose Yarbrough who came to the Virginia Colony from Yorkshire in 1732

The great majority of American families know little or nothing of their family history; how fortunate we of the Ambrose line are that our forefathers and mothers left their footprints in ink on the pages of County histories, courthouse records, archive records, and church records. Now that we know them it would be a sin to forget, and fail to add to their story

This tree copied from the book "YARBROUGH" A Branch through Ambrose the Emigrant. Although we have been able to fill most of the Names in the branch of William Maurice Yarbrough, several names such as Annie and Edward leave not much of a trail after their marriage. This writer will continue to search for information on this branch.

Descendants of Ambrose Yarbrough

Generation No. 1

1. AMBROSE¹ YARBROUGH was born 1710 in Yorkshire England, and died 1788 in Union County, S.C.. He married MARY ?.

Notes for AMBROSE YARBROUGH:

Ambrose Yarbrough was born into the Yarbrough-de Bateson family of Yorkshire England in the year 1710 and at the age of 22 he emigrated to the Virginia Colony. Why he left the comforts of home in England we can only guess. The Yarbroughs of Yorkshire were of the gentry; he was born during the reign of Queen Anne, the last of the Stuarts, and hers was a good and just reign, often referred to as the Augustan Age, to compare it with the reign of Augustus of Rome. When Ambrose left England George 11 was king, and under his able leadership England enjoyed a lofty period of prosperity. So, it seems that Ambrose left home not for religious, economic, or political reasons, but simply because he had to obey his adventurous nature. (From: YARBROUGH written by Robert Price Yarbrough)

Notes for AMBROSE YARBROUGH:

Ambrose the son of Jonathan and Amelia Yarbrough was born 2/19/1772 in Anson County NC.

When Ambrose was a lad Carolina was an unspoiled land. The primeval forest, like an island sea, extended from the coastal piney flats to the Appalachians, and beyond: it was the largest stand of hardwood on earth. The forest was populated by game and predators of all descriptions, and above the woodland sea soared eagles, osprey, and flocks of passenger pigeons so vast as to darken the sky from horizon to horizon. In the lower canopy, jewel-like Carolina parakeet darted among the branches, and elk and eastern buffalo followed the game trails.

Ambrose's home was a good and lonely land.

Ambrose was three years old when the Revolutionary began, and eleven years old when the Rebellion was ended by the Treaty of Paris, in 1783. The only record we have of Ambrose while a boy is a notation on the papers concerning Jonathan's fifty acre grant from the state of North Carolina. George Davidson, the surveyor noted on his report that Ambrose Yarbrough and Joshua Williams served as his chain carriers. This paper was dated 12/5/1779 and at that time Ambrose was seven years old.

We know that Ambrose was literate in a time when but a few could read and write.

In 1792 at the age of twenty, Ambrose emigrated to Washington County, Georgia.

Washington County was formed in 1784 from land ceded by the Creek Indians in 1783. That was a marvelous time for a young man to seek his fortune; the nation was secure, George Washington was president, and Ambrose like his country was young, vigorous, ambitious, impatient; he had to go.

By 1792 a few small settlements and taverns had sprung up along the Catawba Path. Almost invariably there would be a tavern at every major river ford, where depending on the rivers flood, a traveler might be detained for hours or days.

We do not know why Ambrose chose Washington County, Georgia, but we can reasonably assume that his purpose was to join his uncle James Yarbrough, of the Richard line, who was a large land holder in Washington County.

Ambrose's obituary written by the Liberty Baptist Church, Sumter County AL, tells us that while in Washington County, Ambrose was baptized into the fellowship of Buckeye Church by Elder Fulgum, and immediately after his baptism he commenced to exercise his gift in public. This meant that although Ambrose was not licensed or ordained he nevertheless preached the Gospel.

For some unknown reason Ambrose remained in Washington County only two years, and returned to Anson County, NC.

Shortly after returning to Anson County, at the age of twenty five Ambrose married Elizabeth Culpepper, the daughter of John and Mary Culpepper.

Elizabeth Culpepper Yarbrough died in the early eighteen hundreds. We do not know the date of her death, but we do know it was after 1810, for she was the mother of Hardy Yarbrough who was born in 1810. Ambrose then married Phebe Holcomb.

In the late months of 1836 the Yarbroughs and their allied families, the Culpeppers, Watkins, Hardin, and Rainers, sold out and emigrated to the recently established Sumter County, AL. Why did these people leave? Georgia was a good land, and they were well established there. Why did they pull up roots and move into what is now known as the Old Southwest?

Perhaps we can understand why the young couples would go, for they still possessed the pioneer spirit of their parents and grandparents--they could not bear the thought of another man standing between them and the sunset. But why Ambrose? He had a farm of good bottom land, and he was a man of sixty-four.

Perhaps Ambrose joined the migration for two reasons: He could not tolerate separation from his family and friends, but more importantly he felt that God was calling him to this new territory, and he heeded the call. In Alabama and Mississippi his master used him and used him well.

In 1845 Ambrose organized the Liberty Baptist Church. Early church records say that the structure was located in Lauderdale County, Mississippi, and later records say Sumter County AL. The early settlers did not know the exact location of the state line, so when it's location was established, the little church was surprised to learn she was in AL.

Ambrose died July 20, 1861 at the age of eighty nine, and was buried in Liberty Church cemetery.

Generation No. 4

7. HARDY⁴ YARBROUGH (AMBROSE³, JONATHAN², AMBROSE¹) was born 1810 in Georgia, and died February 28, 1877 in Alabama. He married RACHEL YARBROUGH November 15, 1831 in Jackson County, Georgia.

Notes for HARDY YARBROUGH:

Rachel Yarbrough was a first cousin of Hardy Yarbrough

Rachel was the Daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Yarbrough. Hardy moved to Al. in 1837, Ordained as Minister in 1857. Would later serve as pastor of Liberty Baptist Church.

Liberty Baptist Church record book, page 78, dated first Saturday in January 1859, had this to say about Hardy. Called for general business, and on motion and second appointed James Yarbrough church treasurer. On motion and second agreed that Brother Ryan be released from the care of this church. On motion and second went into the choice of pastor which resulted unanimously in the choice of Brother Hardy Yarbrough; he being present answered in the affirmative. The James Yarbrough elected treasurer of the church was Hardy's son.

Entries in the church record book tell us that two of Hardy's sons, Joseph and William, were sowers of wild oates during there youthful years. Both were cited by the church for such unchristian acts as drinking and fighting.

It is said that when Hardy preached he would often place a glass of wine on the pulpit, and from time to time pause and take a sip. We know that Hardy suffered from consumption, so this story could well be true. In those days the thundering sermons often lasted two or three hours, so it seems likely that for a man in Hardy's weakened condition a sip of wine would be more refreshing than a sip of water. Hardy's glass of wine was accepted by his flock, for the memorial written at the time of his death is a testament of their love and respect for the man. Hardy died of the dreaded consumption February, 28 1877, and was buried in Liberty Church cemetery. No stone marks his grave: what a shame to us Yarbroughs.

Notes for WILLIAM MAURICE YARBROUGH:

Yarbrough

It is interesting that William's farm was the second door from his Father Hardy, and his brother Ambrose's land was next to Hardy's. It appears that Hardy gave or sold part of his land to these sons.

The Liberty Church record book tells us that at the February 1869 business meeting a charge was read accusing William Yarbrough of unchristian conduct, and a committee of two appointed to cite him to the next conference to defend himself. William did not appear at the next meeting, or the next, or the next and was excluded from the fellowship of the church. Finally William appeared, made his statement, and was restored as a member in good standing. Then William asked for his letter and left. In those days the accuser would remain anonymous, and the burden was on the accused. Perhaps William is to be admired, for probably he would not have hesitated to stand before his judges, if his accuser had the courage to stand beside him.

There is hardly a page in the old record book that does not contain at least one reference to someone being cited for unchristian conduct, and believe you me the Yarbroughs furnished their share of those called to the carpet for such dreadful sins as fighting, drinking, dancing, and playing cards. These Great Aunts and Uncles were a saucy lot, and we admire them. (Yarbrough's)

Vocations: I taught elementary school for 15 years, then became a guidance counselor in the elementary school where I have been for the past 8 years

Education: 1959-Graduated from High School

1975 Graduated from The University of West FL. in Pensacola with a BS in Elem. ED.

1990 Graduated from Troy University (AL) with a MS degree in counseling.

Anecdotes: (Any thing in your life that you would like to have preserved for your descendants) would like for them to know I have always tried to live my life according to the way the Bible tells us to live, and because of it, I have had a wonderful life. I would also like them to know the reason my name is spelled NAIL instead of NALE as it should be. My Father spelled it NAIL when he grew up because his birth certificate was spelled NAIL by mistake, so he just left it that way.

Dear Ancestor

*Your tombstone stands among the rest,
Neglected and alone.
The name and date are chiseled out
On polished, marble stone.
It reaches out to all who care
It is too late to mourn.
You did not know that I exist
You died and I was born.
Yet each of us are cells of you
In flesh, in blood, in bone.
Our blood contracts and beats a pulse
Entirely not on our own.
Dear Ancestor, the place you filled
One hundred years ago
Spreads out among the ones you left
Who would have loved you so.
I wonder if you lived and loved,

Martha Alice Yarbrough Nail

~~My testimony is very simple. I always believed in God, from my first understanding. I was born June 19, 1921 Newton, Mississippi. to Christian parents. Parents that had been reared in homes where God and ~~the~~ family came first. Grandma took me to church the first two months on a pillow, I was so small. Weighing 3 1/2 lbs at birth. ~~My~~ My Grandfather Yarbrough was still preaching at that time after having preached over 35 years. He died before I was two years old so I never knew his love. ^{of guidance} Grandma taught me that God loved me and would always look after me if I loved him and believed in him.~~

My childhood years were happy and busy years with two brothers and a sister joining me in the family.

It was in a small Baptist church in Valley Park Miss. during a summer Revival that I at 15 years of age realized that I had always believed in God but had never accepted Christ as my savior. My brother Bill at 10 years of age accepted Christ first in the early part of the week. Several members of the church had been talking with me. I really was thinking about it but it took Bill to talk with me.

on Thursday morning. I spent that afternoon in my bedroom reading the Bible and thinking ^{praying} - Late that day I told Norma I was going to join that night. She kissed me and started crying. I made me wonder why after all those years I had waited to accept Christ. I was just as happy as she was and could hardly wait for church to start that night. My life from then on was happier than ever.

God has always been here for me and brought me through many bad times in later life. When it looked like family, financial, & health problems would be more than I could take. My faith has been strong and I am so thankful to be here today -

Robert Lee

Submitted by:

 Jerry M. Pruitt

A fellow Yarbrough researcher provided me with a copy of Robert's will listing a wife, Sarah (?), and children, William, Judith, Richard, James, Robert, John, Millee, May, Mittry, Elizabeth & Sarah. The will, dated 29 NOV 1766, is in the Wills & Estate records of Anson Co., NC.

My Millee (Amelia "Millie/Milly") married Jonathan Yarbrough and her sister May (Mary) married his brother Humphrey, both sons of Ambrose Yarbrough b abt 1710 Yorkshire, England d abt 1788 Cross Keys, Union Dist., SC & Mary Mason b in VA.

Robert Price Yarbrough, in his book "YARBROUGH A Branch through Ambrose the Emigrant", indicates that a Williamson Boyakin stated that the sisters, Millie and Mary, were kinswomen of Francis Lightfoot Lee and Richard Henry Lee.

My Lee material is very limited but I will be happy to share any of it we find that may be helpful to you

JONATHAN and AMELIA YARBROUGH

JONATHAN, the son of AMBROSE and MARY YARBROUGH was born ca. 1735 in the colony of Virginia.¹ This researcher has not documented the exact location of JONATHAN'S birth. Some Yarbrough researchers lean toward Amelia County, Virginia, as his place of birth, but as far as we know none have found positive proof. Culpepper County is probably the safer guess.

It appears that JONATHAN YARBROUGH and his brother Humphrey emigrated from Virginia to Anson County, North Carolina, some time during the latter half of the 1750's. The first record of them we have found is an entry in Anson County deed book C-1, page 446, dated 28 June 1758. They witnessed a sale of land along the Pee Dee River. The 1763 Anson County tax roll lists two bachelor brothers, JONATHAN and Humphrey Yarbrough living together, and they are listed as a family of two.²

Medley's "History of Anson County, North Carolina" says, "The Curlees, Parkers, along with the Yarbroughs came from Virginia about 1770." Medley's research is in error, for we know the brothers JONATHAN and Humphrey were in Anson in 1758, and possibly earlier. A Richard Yarbrough bought land from Jonathan Severight on Little Creek, 18 October 1756.³ Joel Yarbrough bought land from Richard Yarbrough on Little Creek, 25 January 1757.⁴ JONATHAN and Humphrey settled on Lanes Creek about three quarters of a mile west of Little Creek, and this leads us to think that the Yarbroughs on Lanes and Little Creek were kinsmen.

JONATHAN married a young lady named AMELIA. (See the second AMBROSE'S obituary.) The record of JONATHAN and AMELIA'S marriage has not been found, so we do not know her family name, or when or where they were married. This researcher firmly believes but can not prove that JONATHAN married the daughter of his near neighbor Robert Lee. In those primitive days young swains were limited in their courting, they could seek sweethearts only within shoe-leather or horse-back distance. Robert Lee's will dated 9 November 1766 clearly tells us that at that time he had a grown unmarried daughter named Amelia (Milly). This young lady had the right name, and she was in the right place at the right time. Records of colonial marriages are rare because the British authorities did not recognize the legality of a marriage unless performed by a clergy man of the Episcopal Church of England. In 1765 Colonel William Tryon was appointed governor of the Carolina Colony, and Tryon decreed that marriages by Presbyterian clergymen would also be recognized. Still the Baptist, Methodist, Quakers, and Moravians, etc., were not satisfied, and continued to exchange marriage vows without the state's blessing, And if a marriage was recorded only a scant number of eighteenth century courthouses escaped fire. When such a tragedy occurred, the citizenry would invariably attempt first to save the court records, land records, tax rolls, etc.; marriage bond records carried a pitifully low priority. No doubt this explains why for three generations we find no marriage records.

As late as 1790 the census lists only thirty-one Yarbrough (all spellings) families in North Carolina, eight in South Carolina, and none in Virginia. Parts of the Virginia census were destroyed in the War of 1812, and possibly there were Yarbroughs listed among the burned pages. The Georgia census was completely destroyed in the War of 1812, but we know that a few families had drifted over from South Carolina, probably not more than five or six. At that time no Yarbroughs had drifted further west than eastern Georgia, except for the three brothers from Elbert County, Georgia, who ventured westward in the 1790's to Spanish Louisiana. Lewis, James, and Stephen Yarbrough settled on Pretty Creek in the Fifth Ward, and there they made their hatchet clearing, and erected their cabins. We are told that Stephen became infatuated with his neighbor, the pretty dark-eyed Widow Morgan. The romance cooled when the wounded dove sued Stephen for breach of promise, seeking $10,000.00 to salve her broken heart. The court awarded the Widow Morgan $1,000.00⁵ So much for the three Yarbroughs of Pretty Creek, and now back to the 1790 census. We suspect that the census missed some Yarbrough families, for the Richard line had been multiplying in America for a hundred and fifty years at that time, and remember, we are counting all spellings of which there are at least twenty-three. The most imaginative spelling yet seen was in the 1820 South Carolina, Orangeburg District census. The census taker spelled the name Yarbaugough. In the 1830 census the same family's name was spelled Yarbrough.

The 1790 census tells us that at that time there were eight children in JONATHAN and AMELIA'S home, four sons and four daughters of all ages. JONATHAN was fifty at that time, so we may be sure there were other sons, and daughters who were grown and gone. Unfortunately, we can identify only four; we know there was a son named AMBROSE, a son named JOSEPH, a son named William, and a daughter named Mary.

Before going further with JONATHAN, we will at this point tell the little we know of his brothers and sister.

JONATHAN'S brother Humphrey married Mary Lee, the daughter of his neighbor Robert Lee. Humphrey and Mary's children were Ambrose, who emigrated to Giles County, Tennessee, Humphrey Jr., who emigrated to Spartanburg County, South Carolina, Amon who emigrated to Marengo County, Alabama, and Lee who emigrated to Tennessee. There were probably other children we do not know. Some time between 1763 and 1771 Humphrey emigrated about forty miles south-westward, settled and made improvements to land along the north fork of Waxhaw Creek.⁶ His location was about twenty-five miles south of present day Charlotte, North Carolina. For some unknown reason Humphrey remained in the Waxhaw area but a few years, then rejoined his brother JONATHAN on Lanes Creek near the Rocky River. In 1773 Humphrey received a Crown Grant of one hundred acres of land on Lanes Creek, the record file shows that his brother JONATHAN helped survey the tract. Humphrey was a Revolutionary War soldier, we do not know his unit, but he probably served in the Rocky River Company of Anson County Militia. ?

JONATHAN'S brother Ambrose Jr. seems to have been a rambling man we find him in the old Cheraw District, the Orangeburg District, the Barnwell District, and finally in the Spartanburg District where he lived out his life near his kinsmen. We know that Ambrose Jr. was a married man and was the father of several children, but we have found no record of his marriage or family. Ambrose Jr. was a Revolutionary War soldier. On page 26 are copies of his Revolutionary pay record, which tell us that he was a cavalryman in the dashing Peter Horry's Dragoons. The payment to Ambrose for his lost mare tells us that the loss was due to enemy action, otherwise he would not have been reimbursed. Peter Horry's Dragoons was a light cavalry unit that saw more than it's share of action during Cornwallis's southern campaign. Horry's British counterpart in South Carolina was the elite Tarleton's Green Dragoons under the command of Cornwallis's chief of cavalry, Colonel Banastre Tarleton. He was a cavalry genius, a darling of the English court, a favorite of the queen, and a sadistic murderer. "Bloody Tarleton", the Patriots called him.

JONATHAN'S sister Ann married a man named Peter Pinnell, and their home was in Union County, South Carolina. Ann and Peter were probably married in Virginia. This is all we know about Ann. This is not to say that there is nothing more to learn about Ann and other great aunts and uncles; we have simply not had time to completely research all of these people.

JONATHAN'S brother Jeremiah was married to a lady named Amy, and their home was in Union County, South Carolina. No marriage record has been found, so we do not know Amy's family name; they were probably married in Virginia. Documents in custody of the Union County courthouse concerning Jeremiah's estate settlement reveal that both Jeremiah and Amy signed their name with a mark; as far as we know they were the only Yarbroughs of the AMBROSE line who could not write. When Jeremiah died intestate in 1797, Amy was appointed administratrix by the Union County court, and the records show that she managed the long drawn out procedure in a most admirable manner. This is all we know about Jeremiah and Amy, except that the estate settlement reveals they were financially well off.

We know nothing about JONATHAN'S sister, Mary, except that her father AMBROSE was seventy-eight years old when he made his will in which he referred to her as Mary Yarbrough. So we may
